Beloved Thought Written by Wise King Says She Died to Save Him

PHOTO, Jan. 20. (P)—The Daily Mirror will print Cairo stories using the newspaper's Almanac as authority for the story of the sensational discovery in Jerusalem of the mummy of the favorite wife of King Solomon, who died in tragic circumstances.

The British chamber just laid bare in magnificence the mummy of King Tut-Ank-Hamun, it is filled with objects of great value, including a golden coffin which revealed the secret of its richness in previous reigns. The finds include several rings and at the top a crown set with sapphires, emeralds and pearls.

MANY TOLD IN SCROLLS The body was a Hebrew scroll, believed to be in writing of King Solomon, referring to his wife's death and the memory of the favorite wife of King Solomon, who died in tragic circumstances.

Will Rogers Remarks:

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (P)—[To the Editor of The Times:] Mr. Hoover leaves the employment bureau tomorrow for a much needed vacation, this time on a good-will mission to Florida to personally thank them for their excellent judgment shown in the Republican primaries on November 6 last. Train stops are only scheduled through the old rock-ridden Republican States of Virginia and North Carolina where they will take on enough provisions to carry them through rebel territory. Any applicant from Pennsylvania that don't receive a Cabinet appointment will know that they have been "hexed."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (P)—Minister Recinos of Guatemala said tonight advised from his government reported that government forces had reoccupied Matananza. He added that his government's information indicates the revolution will be suppressed in the next few days.

The Minister also denied the reports that five western departments of Guatemala are in revolt.

SHIP HARD AGROUND

The President Garfield is not taking water, he said, but is hard aground in the reef. It is believed that it might be some time before she was floated. A wrecking tug of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Company has been dispatched from Jacksonville, Fla., to the aid of the vessel.

Officials of the Dollar Line said that so far as they knew no SOS had been sent. They said their information from the liner reported it had run aground at 7:25 a.m. today and that their messages indicated the liner was undamaged.

Dollar Line officials said they expected no trouble would be experienced in pulling their ship off the reef.

Federal Victories Rapidly Restoring Republic to Normal

GUATEMALA CITY, Jan. 20. (P)—Government forces today reoccupied parts of two cities seized by the revolutionists and are severely bombarding the part of Mazatanango.

Airplanes using bombs and machine guns in co-operation with the infantry yesterday were said to have demoralized the insurgents, many of whom were seen to fall. These commando forces, including the railway station, Mazatanango, inciting the railway to Mazatanango, yesterday, and early this morning subjected the remainder of the city to a violent artillery attack.

In the city of Salama the rebels in the northern part handed over their arms after their leaders had fled before the advance of loyal troops, who reoccupied the section without resistance. The cities of Quetzaltenango and Totonicapan are repossessing the surroundings of the rebel leader, Mariano Casado, who has released the forces under his command.

The government dominates the situation and the republic rapidly is returning to normal.

AUTHOR FOUND DEAD IN ROOM

Leonard Cline Believed to be Heart-Attack Victim

End Thought to Have Come About Five Days Ago

Last Seen Alive at Party Tuesday Night

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (AP)—Leonard Cline, novelist and short-story writer, was found dead late today in his West Side apartment. A medical examiner said he had died about five days ago of heart disease.

The novelist's body, clad in pajamas and lying on a bed, was discovered by two tenants of the building who opened the apartment door after receiving no response to their knocks.

Cline apparently had not been seen since last Tuesday night when he gave a party in his apartment. Miss Helen Todd, agent for the building, told police that during the party Cline had complained to her of his heart.

Miss Todd added that the author came to New York about a month ago from his farm near Willimantic, Ct. She said he told her that he was unable to work at his farm because of worry about financial obligations. He was writing for the magazine "Time," in addition to working on his manuscripts. Miss Todd said:

Cline was 38 years of age. Among his novels are "God Head," "Listen Moon" and "Dark Chamber."

SOLDIERS' BONES IN HUGE TOMB

Jugo-Slav Government Erects Massive Vault to Mark Spot of Battle

BELGRADE, Jan. 20. (AP)—The bones of 100,000 soldiers of Serbia, France, England and Greece will be placed in a massive tomb which the Jugo-Slav government has erected at Kanchatkan. On this blood-drenched hilltop the Allies defeated the Bulgarians ten years ago.

Crane G. Cline, of Detroit, was nominated of his death.

Cline figured prominently in the news in 1927, when he pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in connection with the killing of his friend, Wilfred P. Irwin, on May 18 of that year at the novelist's farm at Willimantic. The plea was accepted by the prosecutor, who said additional evidence in his hands led to a greater understanding of the crime. Cline was sentenced to one year in the Tolland County Jail. While in jail he continued his literary work, translating "The Magic Lamp," a series of spiritual exercises, from the Spanish.

POLAND TO SIGN RUSSIAN TREATY

Protocol Designed to Assure Eastern Europe's Peace

Rumania Will be Invited in as Party to Action

Warsaw Wants Other Baltic States Included, Too

WARSAW (Poland) Jan. 20. (AP)—Poland today replied to the most recent message of Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet assistant commissar for foreign affairs, regarding the completion of an antiwar pact between the two nations in the interests of peace in Eastern Europe.

The Polish note today says that since the United States has ratified the Kellogg-Briand Pact Poland has communicated with all the original signers of the pact. Poland now is able to agree to sign the protocol proposed by the Soviet government.

The note expresses pleasure that the Soviet government also has agreed to invite Rumania to sign such a treaty, and it is said that Poland will take the necessary steps toward making Rumania party to their action. It is insisted, however, that all Baltic states likewise be invited to join in the signing of the protocol.

The note concludes with the statement that Stanislaw Patek, Polish Minister at Moscow, has been instructed to start negotiations looking to the protocol.

TURKISH ASSEMBLY

RATIFIES KELLOGG PACT

ANGORA (Turkey) Jan. 20. (AP)—The Assembly has ratified unanimously the Kellogg pact for renunciation of war and the government has instructed its Ambassador at Washington to sign the pact. Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushdi Bey was so anxious for Turkey to be the first country to sign after ratification by the United States Senate that he rose from a sick bed to encourage the urgent vote of the Assembly.

DEATH RATE IN TRAFFIC INCREASES

Five Per Cent Advance Shown by Figures From Seventy-eight Cities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (AP)—A 5 per cent increase in the death rate due to automobile accidents in seventy-eight large American cities for the past year, as compared with 1927, was reported today by the Department of Commerce.

In 1928 the total deaths for the cities were 7084, while the figures for 1928 were 7514. During the last four weeks of 1928 the deaths amounted to 771. The same period of 1927 resulted in 624 fatalities by automobile.

Skirts Longer but Just Look at New Gowns

PARIS, Jan. 20. (Exclusive)—Styles for 1929 hide the knee but leave the waistline indeterminate, and evening robes again are low cut in front after several years of high-necked fronts and backless gowns.

An advance glimpse of the Callot collection shows the most daring, revealing, decollete gowns, but they reach below the knee and wisps of material on one or both sides touch the ground. In most cases it is necessary to place a band at the back in order to provide sufficient material to hold the gown on, but the most startling models have just a pair of suspenders above the waist.

The formal openings at the leading dressmakers begin this coming week and the most extreme precautions are being taken to bar fashion experts, sketchers and other male visitors, even informing ship dissectors hundreds of buyers and artists seeking the latest motif of the coming fashions.

The robber, whom Epstein described as a man in a United States Navy uniform, took the jeweler's keys and robbed the safe, obtaining about $45.

SUIT ECHOES YACHT EPISODE

Southern Millionaire Sued for $250,000 by Dancer Who Recites Tale of Being Held Prisoner

ATLANTA (Ga.) Jan. 20. (AP)—Miss Frances Porter wants $250,000 because she says Conklin P. Whitehead, millionaire Atlanta sportsman, ruined her stage career and humiliated her by declining to become her patron and husband.

Suit filed yesterday in Fulton Superior Court came as a sequel to differences between the Atlanta millionaire and the dancer aboard his yacht in Havana Harbor last November.

"False imprisonment in Havana—anything else," the petition added. "Then he (Whitehead) refused to comply with his agreement to financing her stage career, though requested to do so, and made her virtually a prisoner aboard his yacht, depriving her of her stage career," the petition recited.

Miss Julia Murphy Whitehead has a suit for divorce pending against her husband, charging excessive intoxication.

Miss Porter's suit says she met Whitehead in Atlanta in the spring of last year. She went to New York, the petition said, for an interview with him and joined him at a fishing lodge up the Atlantic Coast. She paid funds and tickets supplied by Whitehead, the petition continued, and went with Whitehead on his yacht under the impression that he would marry her.

"She was placed in such a position that it was impossible to do

PAPAL DOMAIN NEARS NEW ERA

Admission Into League of Nations Seen Possible

Fixing of Boundaries Now Only Obstacle

Vatican Delegates May Aid in Social Problems

ROME, Jan. 20. (AP)—The forthcoming settlement of the Roman question may mark a new era in the history of the Catholic Church in that the Pope will have an undoubted right to propose the candidacy of the Papal state for admission to the League of Nations. Tentative moves in that direction in the past have been blocked by the lack of purely defined boundaries.

Since the League of Nations by its covenant is bound to consider the admission of any applying entity on the basis of answers to the questions, "Has the state well-defined frontiers?" and "Is it stable and established?" it appears that the Papal state, once its boundaries are defined will be sure of admission, since the answer to the second question is that its government has functioned for nearly 2000 years.

If admitted to the Assembly of the Pope might be expected to find places on committees dealing with social and humanitarian problems, and it is even within the range of possibility that a representative of the Holy See might some day sit beside the representative of the kingdom of Italy at the Council table of the League.

Not only would the representative of the Pope have influence with representatives of Catholic nations members of the League, but they would have the opportunity in the intimacy of Geneva to iron out many difficulties in the dealings between the church and various estates, notably in Latin-America, during the intervals between formal sessions of the League.

Russ Refugees Split on Issue of Royal Heir

NICE (France) Jan. 20. (AP)—A schism has developed in the ranks of Russian refugees. The "white organization" in the French and Italian Riviera, numbering thousands of former officers and soldiers of the Czarist regime, has refused flatly to accept the leadership of Gen. Alexander Pavlovitch Koutlakoff, who last Friday in Paris was named successor to the late Grand Duke Nicholas.

These opponents call the general self-appointed. While not belittling the brilliant role of Koutlakoff during the war, they feel the need of a royal name and personality to continue to work against the soviet regime. At the same time Grand Duke Cyril is most unpopular because of his quarrel with Nicholas, whose funeral he failed to attend.

No "Huddling 'Round the Fire" with a Gas Radiator

EVERY corner of the room is filled with cosy, comfortable heat if you use modern gas radiators.

Whether it is a gas steam radiator, or the vented warm-air type, there is heating comfort for the whole family.

Two Types

The Gas Steam Radiator gives you evenly-distributed and comfortably-moist heat without need for a central boiler. An automatic valve regulates the amount of gas used.

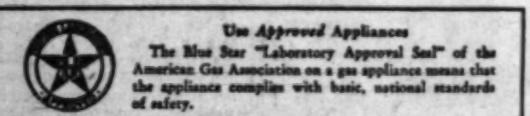

The Vented Warm-Air type operates like other radiators, quickly spreading cheerful warmth through the room.

Moderate in Cost

Both types of gas radiators are moderate in cost, easy to install and very economical to operate. The new gas rates make it possible to use more gas for heating than ever before, without increasing fuel costs.

Expert Advice

Our Commercial Engineering Department, or your dealer, will be glad to tell you more about gas radiators.

If It's Done With Heat,
You Can Do It Better With Gas

Use Approved Appliances
The Blue Star "Laboratory Approval Seal" of the American Gas Association on a gas appliance means that the appliance complies with basic, national standards of safety.

TOKIO SCANDALS CAUSE CLEAN-UP

Purification Move, Long Overdue, Starts

Thirty-nine City Officials Placed in Jail

Reformers Hope to Break Rule of Assembly

BY ALFRED E. FIERES

TOKIO, Jan. 20. (Exclusive)—A definite move has been launched to cleanse Tokio's municipal Augean stables, purification of which has been long overdue. Ever since Japan's capital was granted a form of autonomous rule, scandals have been the order of the day. Attempts have been made in the past to rid the Tokio Municipal Assembly of those underhanded influences, but so strong has been the force and power of party politics that these laudable attempts resulted in a bit of whitewashing, the sacrifice of a couple of scapegoats and an utter fiasco. There is nothing strange in this.

Political parties in Japan are so firmly entrenched that to undermine their foundations—and that is the only way to get at the root of the scandals—means revolution. The corruption that has been mercilessly exposed in the Tokio municipality is but a reflection of the corruption that has existed, and does today, in the national politics of Japan.

POSITIVE MOVE MADE

Hitokio, the attempt to purge Tokio of its corrupt influences was undertaken either by special commissions which virtually amounted to the accused constituting themselves into a judge and jury to try themselves—or by loud-sounding reform associations that could hardly do anything more than beat metaphysical drums and utter loud-sounding slogans, while the Municipal Assembly members laughed in their sleeves. Today, however, a more positive move has been made, and the judiciary is after the scabs of the isolated and contaminated city fathers, nearly a half of whom are today in the toils of the law.

The Japanese public is a long-suffering one, but the worm has now definitely turned and a demand by the residents of Tokio for immediate dissolution of the Municipal Assembly and for the deterrent punishment of those city fathers who have utilized their position for corrupt purposes took tangible shape when Count Goto, a former Mayor of Tokio and Viscount Sakatani, prominent in business circles of the capital and son-in-law of Viscount Shibusawa, the Grand Old Man of Japan, backed by influential Tokio citizens, presented to Premier Tanaka and to Mr. Mochizuki, the Home Minister, a resolution adopted by the Society for the Purification of Tokio City Assembly demanding immediate dissolution of the Assembly.

CRYING SHAME

In doing so both Count Goto and Viscount Sakatani expressed their views on the situation and declared that there was a crying shame that these corrupt members should be allowed to continue in office. Count Goto has more than once attempted to cleanse Japan's political world, but has as often failed, partly because he did not fully estimate the power of the country's political parties and partly because of the apathy of the general public who, while keenly interested in foreign affairs, is strangely lethargic toward domestic affairs.

Tokio's citizens, however, are a rather more progressive element, and in the series of scandals—one nearly every three or four months since the reorganization of Tokio after the '28 quake—that have cropped up have caused them to pick up their backs. The Mayor of Tokio, who has been made practically a figurehead by the city Aldermen, has joined forces with Count Goto and so has Gov. Hiratsuka of the Tokio Prefecture.

IN REAL EARNEST

All this has strengthened the hands of the police and of the Home Minister with the result that the procurators got busy in real earnest and, after formal preliminary investigation, threw several of the city fathers behind iron bars. It was only because His Imperial Majesty was scheduled to pay Tokio a formal enthronement visit—the first time a ruler of this country has done so—that other Aldermen, charged with more venial offenses, were not also put behind prison doors.

At this writing some thirty-nine of Tokio's eighty-eight city fathers have been arrested and when another five are in the toils of the law—and the papers say that many more will soon be taken into custody—the City Assembly automatically goes out of existence and Tokio will have no municipality. The regulations give the Home Minister full power to dissolve the municipality and conduct the affairs of the city through the Home Office, which is likely to happen ere long.

The dissolution of the municipality will be followed with fresh elections and the proletarian elements, who are very strong in the capital, are preparing for strenuous campaigns, already asserting that only a proletarian Assembly could keep its hands clean. It remains to be seen what Tokio citizens will do to put their house in order and to cleanse the city's Augean stable which, if the simple truth must be told, have been reeking with scandals ever since Tokio was granted a form of city autonomy.

Smith Leaves for Florida on Vacation Trip

Accompanying him were Mrs. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kennedy, close friends of the Smith family. John J. Raskin, Democratic National Chairman, was to join the party at Wilmington, Del.

The former Governor said that he was "getting away from politics and had no idea of seeing southern political leaders while on his vacation. He and his party plan to spend six weeks at Sarasota, Fla.

HELEN REGISTERS HER JOY

Miss Wills Poses With Fiance for Film Men, But Talking Pictures and Close-ups Taboo

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20. (P)—Miss Helen Wills, women's world tennis champion, and her fiance, Frederick S. Moody, Jr., posed for a battery of more than twenty cameras here today, but barred "close-ups" and talking pictures.

The posing was arranged by the families of the young couple, who have been pursued by cameramen ever since their engagement was announced the 15th inst. The young folk consented to pose at the California Tennis Club for news reel and picture photographers.

Miss Wills kept the appointment, but Moody failed to appear. After waiting for him an hour, Miss Wills decided to drive to his home and get him. She climbed into her automobile for the drive, and the cameramen jumped into their machines to accompany her. Miss Wills noticed a movie-tone camera.

"That can't go," she announced. "I won't have a talking-moving picture."

The cameramen conferred, and finally yielded. The truck carrying the talking-film cameras went away. The rest followed Miss Wills to her fiance's home. She went into the house, and presently appeared with Moody in tow. She announced that the pictures would be taken at Aliso Park Plaza.

Arriving at the spot she selected, Miss Wills threw off her smart gray sport coat, and appeared all in red, with a little red hat and a touch of red in her shoes. She even carried a red book, a book on modern art.

At his fiancee's suggestion, Moody took off his coat, but refused to doff his hat. Miss Wills smiled dazzlingly, but her companion's face was for the most part serious.

"This being engaged is more exciting than any tennis match," said Miss Wills when the posing was over, "but it's lots of fun, isn't it, dear?" she added, addressing Moody.

Moody grinned without replying.

GASOLINE WAR MAY END TODAY

Three Peace Sessions Are Scheduled to Meet in San Francisco Area

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20. (Exclusive)—Three "peace conferences" which forecast the end of the gasoline price war on both sides of the bay are scheduled to be held in San Francisco and Oakland tomorrow.

Attorneys representing all factions of the San Francisco fight will meet in the morning for final discussion of agreements between the Garage and Property Owners' Association and Retail Service Station Dealers' Association. The agreements provide for stabilizing the retail price of gasoline at 21 cents a gallon.

Filling-station men will hold a special meeting Monday evening, it was stated by John Bury, head of the organization. They plan to endorse the centralized price-control plan sponsored by the garage owners.

The East Bay factions in the fight will head recommendations of their committee of eight at a meeting in the Hotel Oakland tomorrow. Joseph M. Parker, manager of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, brought the warring factions together when the investigating committee was appointed.

According to W. Fred Ostrander, chairman, virtually all gasoline dealers of East Bay cities will be present at the mass meeting to hear the solution proposed by their committee, which has already a definite plan for ending the war.

Predictions by Ostrander and H. William Nelle, executive secretary of the San Francisco Garage and Property Owners' Association, are that a truce probably will be declared Tuesday morning.

University of Michigan May Lose President

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) Jan. 20. (P)—The resignation of Dr. Clarence C. Little as president of the University of Michigan, it was reported in university circles today, may be presented at the monthly meeting of the Board of Regents tomorrow night.

Dr. Little declares he has not resigned, and Shirley W. Smith, secretary of the Board of Regents, says the board has not received the resignation.

The report persists, however, that the resignation will be presented and accepted with a disagreement between Dr. Little and the board over policies of administration as the reason.

Injured Boy Passes Fifth Day in Coma

OROFINO (Idaho) Jan. 20. (P)—Struck in the jaw Monday while coasting, Kermit Perkins, Weippe (Idaho) schoolboy, at 9 o'clock tonight had passed 125 hours of unconsciousness without signs of failing health, doctors said.

Kermit had been given little nourishment, and that with an eye dropper through an opening in his cheek, since Monday, when his head collided with an automobile. Surgeons believe he is suffering from a brain concussion or a spinal injury.

LAUNCH SEIZED AND OCCUPANT QUIZZED

SANTA CRUZ, Jan. 20. (P)—The Sheriff's office here today took in tow a twenty-five-foot launch recently missing from its moorings in San Francisco's Marina District. On the launch was a man who gave the name of John Lurdington and said he purchased the craft from a junk dealer in San Francisco and was bound for Santa Barbara. Attention to the launch resulted from the spot in which it was moored near Davenport, near here. Lurdington was held for questioning.

NEW KICK PUT IN DRY BATTLEPublic Appeals for Added Funds Stir Interest*Greater Zest Anticipated in Senate Debate*Vote on Nomination of West Slated for Today

WASHINGTON. Jan. 20. (P)—Public appeals by three prominent dry leaders for the proposed $25,000,000 increase for prohibition enforcement have added new complication to this controversy in the Senate and new zest in the already protracted debate is anticipated.

Before getting to the prohibition question again, however, the Senate will vote tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. on the nomination of Roy O. West of Chicago as Secretary of the Interior.

All of this is adding to the tangled Senate situation which daily is growing more forboding for the long pending cruiser construction bill. The naval measure is due in the Senate before the propositors of President Coolidge's still pending and administration leaders are beginning to show some concern over its outlook.

Regardless of the vote on the $25,000,000 prohibition increase, leaders believe at least that the proposal of Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, for appropriation of $250,000 to be used by a Presidential commission in study of prohibition will be adopted.

President Hoover has indicated very clearly that he intends to order such an investigation and this $250,000 is intended to meet the expenses of the proposed commission.

HOUSE OPTIMISTIC

The House, with its stringent rules limiting debate, has gone steadily ahead on its work this session and sees the end of its legislative tasks by adjournment on March 4, but the Senate situation is growing more complicated. Friends of the bill to authorize the construction of fifteen new cruisers and an additional carrier insist that the protracted debate on the West confirmation and on other matters is aimed to delay the consideration of this naval measure.

The Republican independents and Senator King, Democrat, Utah, are prepared to open an assault on the cruiser bill but so far they have been unable to do so effectively. There is a filibuster against the naval measure, they point out that all debate so far on this bill has been consumed by its proponents.

There are six more weeks to the session, but it is realized that opponents of the naval bill will win support in any filibuster which may be undertaken from opponents of any other legislation in the coming session. To overcome this, the House nonappropriation bill also are ready to help in the general talk with a view to delaying a final vote on this proposal.

PLANS FORMED

Chairman Hale of the Senate Naval Committee has taken steps to gain consideration of the cruiser measure during the week, but will be hampered by the batch of necessary appropriation bills confronting the Senate, and which usually get priority. His first move will be for longer daily sessions.

Beyond that he has announced no plan, but it is no secret that the cruiser bill opponents, including leaders of both parties, are ready to seek the closure rule limitation of this bill, if necessary. Adoption of this rule, however, requires a two-thirds vote and a real test is anticipated if this program is followed.

Over in the House, the Ways and Means Committee and its hearings on tariff revision, will hold the spotlight. More than fifty witnesses are expected during the week with the controversial sugar tariff up for discussion.

BISHOP OPPOSING DRY LAW LAXITY

WASHINGTON. Jan. 20. (P)—Elaborating on his recent telegram to Secretary Mellon urging the proposed $25,000,000 prohibition enforcement increase, Bishop Cannon, Jr., chairman of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today in a statement said the dry law's enforcement should not lag because of the lack of a more adequate program "than is possible with present appropriations."

In his telegram Bishop Cannon objected to the stand of Mr. Mellon, who has opposed the increase. The bishop in today's statement said he is "in full accord with what I understand to be Secretary Mellon's position that a larger appropriation should be made to the Department of Justice to enable it to handle expeditiously indictments against prohibition law offenders."

KEEPS HER SIX CHILDREN HEALTHY WITH FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

Best for Colds and Body Building

Six pairs of bright eyes and rosy cheeks greeted Mrs. Secor of Scituate, Mass., when she returned home from a shopping tour today. Mrs. Secor's children reflect the best of home care and she says FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE keeps the family well. Following is her letter:

"I keep my six children healthy by using FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE. I have given it to all the children and it is good for them—free from colds and better than any. My husband's work takes him out in all kinds of weather and yet, like the children, he seldom has a cold because he takes FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE regularly. I would not be without it in the house."

This mother, like thousands of others, knows that she takes no chances when she gives FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE to her children, because it is a pure whole-some food medicine and does not contain alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form. Mothers have written like this about FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE for over seventy years.

FRUIT GROWERS IN BANANA WARCongress Will be Asked for Prohibitive Tax*Farm Bureau Groups Back of Move as "Relief"*Tariff Committee Urged to Levy $1 Per Bunch

WASHINGTON. Jan. 20. (P)—A head-on collision between the banana importers and the orange and apple growers is in prospect in connection with the tariff revision hearings. An under-cover drive of large proportions is under way to levy a duty of $1 per bunch on bananas. This is to protect the domestic banana industry, for there is none. It is to protect western growers of oranges and apples from the banana "competition."

If such a duty is levied it will be equivalent to putting a tax of 1 cent on every banana consumed in American homes. The fight will probably come into the open this week when hearings start on the agricultural sections of the tariff law.

The demand for an import levy on bananas is to be made under the assertion that it is a measure to "help" the farmer. It is one of the long list of recommendations of the American Farm Bureau. It is expected that the Grange will take similar stand. Chairman Hawley of the House Ways and Means Committee hails from Oregon, a great apple-growing State. His support of a duty on bananas has been enlisted. McNary and Stetson, Oregon members of the Senate, are going to fight for this duty, too.

EMBARGO AIMED AT

The slogan "an apple a day keeps the doctor away" is to be changed to read "an apple a day keeps bananas away—if bananas are taxed a dollar a bunch."

In 1927, according to Department of Commerce figures, it was estimated that 61,000,000 bunches of bananas were imported into the United States, valued in the countries of their origin at more than $34,000,000, or roughly, 60 cents a bunch. In 1926 56,000,000 bunches of bananas came into the country; back in 1923 it was 44,000,000 bunches.

This gives an idea of the tremendous volume of banana consumption in this country—roughly, a dozen bananas a week every week in the year for every household in the land. It shows that bananas imports are gaining by leaps and bounds. It indicates also that if an import duty of $1 per bunch were levied and it did not operate to substantially diminish banana imports the Treasury would collect more than $50,000,000 of revenue per year from this single item.

YES, NO BANANAS

The proponents of the duty, however, do not offer it as revenue raising expedient but frankly want to put the duty high enough to keep bananas out of the country—except for the tables of the rich. A duty of $1 per bunch would certainly add at least 25 cents per dozen to the retail selling price, equivalent to a boost of almost 100 per cent. Bananas would graduate into the luxury class.

The last time there was a fight in Congress over the question of an import duty on bananas was during the framing of the Underwood Tariff Act in 1913. At that time many leading Democrats, notably Rainey of Illinois in the House and Underwood himself in the Senate, urged a tariff on bananas as a revenue-raising device. It was said then that next to sugar bananas offered the easiest opportunity to raise a substantial amount of customs revenue—a "consumptive" tax easy to collect.

At that time the hue and cry raised by city dwellers—the banana eaters—against any duty was sufficient to keep bananas off the free list. This time it is a different drive from a different quarter. It is demanded by the Pacific States apple and fruit country, backed by the midwestern farm group as a "help" to American agriculture.

Lindbergh Cousin Injured in Crash

AIKEN (S. C.) Jan. 20. (P)—Ray Barlow, New York City pilot, and Price Gregory of Alken, a passenger, were injured seriously this afternoon when an airplane in which they were stunting over Gaston Polo Field here crashed. Amputation of Gregory's left leg was found necessary. Barlow is said to be a first cousin of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Little Whims and HabitsCause
Big Consequences in Business

Brash, indeed, would be the advertiser who tried to popularize hairpins . . . yet hairpins are what they always were, and there are more women to sell to than ever before.

That's why advertisers today are studying people—the little "kinks" in human nature that can make or break an industry.

They are saying that such factors as the area of a market, population, purchasing-power, etc., are, after all, merely the checkerboard and the checkers.

The real problem is how to play the game—human reactions!

One little kink is commanding particular attention at this time because it accounts in part for an outstanding development of the day—the growing popularity of the Sunday newspapers.

An old newspaper axiom asserts:—

The people most sure to read about an event are those who witnessed it

In short, it's the Saturday football fan who reaches first for the Sunday "sports".

It's the week-day matinee-goer who reads most avidly the Sunday theatrical comment.

All the activities of the week, all the places that people go, all that they do and see, become in effect that many "lines of force" which pull and impel attention to the all-embracing Sunday newspaper.

The growth of Sunday newspaper reading is reflected in the large increased demand for copies of the Los Angeles Sunday Times.

In the period of one year, 15,000 new families—representing from 60,000 to 75,000 individuals—have joined the Sunday Times reading circle.

A little "kink" again gives rise to big consequences, adding new power and appeal to—

OLD RIP TO REST ON BED OF FAME

But Whether Corner-stone Will Be Headstone for Frog Not Yet Decided

EASTLAND (Tex.) Jan. 20. (P)—The body of Old Rip, Eastland's horned frog who died here yesterday, may rest on the scene of his greatest triumph, the Courthouse square here where he is said to have slept thirty-one years immured in the Courthouse corner-stone.

Will M. Wood, owner of the iguanas, said today that at least three resting places have been suggested for the remains.

The new Courthouse here occupies the same site as the one in whose corner-stone the frog reportedly was sealed up thirty-one years ago to prove the West Texas adage that a horned frog can live indefinitely without food or water.

To too much exposure to fresh air, some say, finally killed Rip.

THE UNITED STATES This is more than the total paid by England, Germany and France, the three countries which have the largest foreign trade with America, the Cuban government asserted.

The Cuban government took sharp issue with the conclusion of the Tariff Commission that Cuba is to blame for the present crisis in its sugar industry due to overproduction, asserting that the latter status was brought about during the World War at the exhortation of the United States to supply the Allied belligerents.

STEWART CONFIDENT IN FIGHT

Standard Oil Chairman Says Trip Satisfactory; Europe Holds Balance

CHICAGO, Jan. 20. (P)—Apparently confident of victory in his fight with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for control of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board, returned here today from New York.

"I am well pleased with the result of my trip to New York," he declared as he stepped from the Twentieth Century Limited. "I went there to inform our committee with the internal affairs of the company but I met many people with whom I discussed the annual meeting."

Col. Stewart refused to comment further but the Herald-Examiner tomorrow will say that sources close to him believe the battle for proxies which will come to a climax at the board meeting on March 11 will end in a draw and Standard during the coming week will block stocks of stock sufficient to swing the directors' election are held.

CRITICS SCORE OPERATIC JAZZ

Slovak's Idea of American "Music" Caricature

"Johnny Strikes Up" Called Strike Out Instead

Melodies Held Reminiscent of "Ragtime Band"

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (P)—Presentation at the Metropolitan Opera House of its first "jazz opera" today found the critics generally agreed that it was anything but "jazz."

"Jonny Spielt Auf," or as its American translation has it, "Johnny Strikes up the Band," was written by Ernest Krenek, a Czech-Slovakian, and the critics found his idea of American jazz to be that which Americans of a preceding generation knew as "rag-time."

Then also, these critics who had viewed the opera in Europe agreed it had lost much of its dash and snap in its journey across the ocean. The plot itself they found badly weakened in changing "Jonny" from a negro to a black-faced comedian, making his love for a white woman without point.

CRITICS CAUSTIC

Lawrence Gilman, critic, said that Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Wilson and member of The Hague Peace Tribunal, suggests a "hard-boiled attitude by the United States toward belligerent or prospectively belligerent nations" as a means of obtaining universal peace.

The former Secretary advises, the critics say, that the United States, advised naturally that this country will recognize the empire's decision whenever any two nations attempt to settle a dispute by arbitration.

This would do a great deal toward establishing peace," Mr. Baker is quoted as saying, "for every nation would feel it could not depend on the United States for vital assistance in a million emergency situations. Therefore would move cautiously before engaging in war."

He also would advise that in the event the culpable nation goes to war in defiance of an umpire's decision, the United States would not insist on its rights of neutral trade, but, instead, would refuse to sell munitions or supplies or food to the nation at fault.

ANCIENT HISTORY

Samuel Chotzinoff in his review wrote that the jazz portions of the score were of "the peoples innocent variety which New York found anique even before the advent of Alexander's Ragtime Band." Both George Lopes and Al Johnson, whom the critics interviewed concerning their internal affairs of the company but I met many people with whom I discussed the annual meeting."

Olin Downes said: "It can be said at once and emphatically that 'Jonny' is not in any sense of the word a jazz opera. There is no typical American jazz in the orchestra nor in the singing parts. In his effort to do 'jazz' Krenek has not advanced beyond our long discarded 'ragtime' of the late cake-walk musical epochs. 'Jonny' is an American therefore, as our burlesque saloon-ditty 'Schnitzel-Bunk' is German."

BERLIN, Jan. 20. (P)—Protestant, and particularly Lutheran, churches throughout Germany today celebrated the 400th anniversary of the publication of the Luther catechism.

There were special services which are to be followed during the next six days by "propaganda week" on behalf of religious education.

A group of Union of Evangelical Preachers, from among the theologians and political leaders received general publication. In the opinions is pointed out the influence that the life and work of Martin Luther has had on the German language and culture and the education of the masses.

BRITISH SHELL HOUSE

In 1744 the manor was the meeting place of the commission which set out to negotiate a treaty with the Six Nations resulting in the Indians giving permission for Virginians to settle west of the Allegheny River. In 1750 the manor became the seat of government through the election of Thomas Lee to the office of Royal Governor of the Colony of Virginia. In the Revolution the house was shelled by the British and a skirmish resulted when a landing party was repulsed by hastily armed colonists. Several Indians were killed and are buried on the lawn.

Richard Henry Lee, who moved "these colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent States" was born at Stratford Hall only a few weeks before Washington was born on the adjoining plantation. Francis Lightfoot Lee, another signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born near the manor. Within a few miles of Stratford Hall three of the first five Presidents were born—Washington, Franklin and Monroe.

Robert E. Lee was born at Stratford Hall on January 19, 1807. He was the son of Lightfoot Harry Lee and Anne Carter. Lightfoot Lee, the father, was a soldier of fortune who was awarded a gold medal by the Continental Congress, married first Matilda Lee, a distant cousin and heiress to the Stratford Hall plantation. Their son, Henry Lee, received the property on the death of his father.

TRAGEDY OCCURS

A tragedy took Stratford Hall out of the hands of the Lees just a century ago. Margaret Lee, the 10-year-old daughter of Henry Lee and his only child, ran out of the house during a storm and was killed by falling down the long flight of stone steps. Her father left the plantation never to return. It passed into the hands of Dr. Richard Stuart, father of the recent owner. The Stuarts are related to the Lees through Elmer Calvert, wife of John Park Custis, stepson of George Washington.

It is proposed to restore Stratford Hall and to convert it into a shrine of national pilgrimage under the direction of the Robert E. Lee memorial foundation, according to the agreement signed with the Stuarts. The latter retain sixty acres on the river on which they have permission to build a home conforming to the style of Stratford Hall.

Restoration of the house will affect another show place for the traveler attracted to Virginia by its historic past. Wakefield is being taken over and will be opened to the public on the 200th anniversary of Washington's birthday. Monticello has been made a national museum.

DOUBT EXPRESSED

Doct. is expressed by the author as to whether Buffalo Bill had killed Chief Yellow Hand, a statement which brought forth from Gen. King a detailed description of the slaying as he witnessed it. Gen. King telephoned the story of Chief Yellow Hand's death to the New York Herald.

"Mr. Walsh must have read my account of the encounter with Yellow Hand without realizing that it is the story of an officer present," Gen. King declared, "or, perhaps he thought Charles King was long since dead."

William P. Cody is dead and his detractors cavil at him as they would not dare to do were he alive," the general declared.

HE WAS OFFICER

Gen. King was a lieutenant in the Fifth Cavalry, fifty-three years ago, when Buffalo Bill was the chief scout for the regiment. He was observation officer during the encounter on the War Bonnet and it was on his orders that Bill Cody, two other scouts and five cavalrymen ambushed Yellow Hand, Cheyenne chieftain, he declared.

He personally witnessed the killing of Yellow Hand by Buffalo Bill, who fired the shot that tore through the Indian's leg and pierced his pony's heart, bringing both to earth together.

INEVITABLE HAS COME AT LAST

Court Throws Light on This Lightless-Lighter Situation

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 20. (P)—It had to come, and as well now as later: A lawsuit over a cigarette lighter that wouldn't light.

Per Opahl sued in Conciliation Court yesterday, seeking to learn what the law had to say about his paying $3.50 for a nonlighting lighter. The mechanism worked fine in the store, Opahl testified, but when, before friends, he gave it a confident about-town flip, it wouldn't flicker.

"Refund plaintiff his money," the court ordered.

BAKER GIVES NEW RECIPE FOR PEACE

"Hard-Boiled" Attitude by United States Urged in Yale News Article

NEW HAVEN (Conn.) Jan. 20. (P)—The Yale News tomorrow will say that Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Wilson and member of The Hague Peace Tribunal, suggests a "hard-boiled attitude by the United States toward belligerent or prospectively belligerent nations" as a means of obtaining universal peace.

The former Secretary advises, the critics say, that the United States, advised naturally that this country will recognize the empire's decision whenever any two nations attempt to settle a dispute by arbitration.

This would do a great deal toward establishing peace," Mr. Baker is quoted as saying, "for every nation would feel it could not depend on the United States for vital assistance in a million emergency situations. Therefore would move cautiously before engaging in war."

He also would advise that in the event the culpable nation goes to war in defiance of an umpire's decision, the United States would not insist on its rights of neutral trade, but, instead, would refuse to sell munitions or supplies or food to the nation at fault.

SUGGESTED IN 1878

Henry Lewis, Washington realty dealer, handled the negotiations leading to the passing of the state from private to semipublic hands. The purchase of the property was made in 1878 by the national convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy last year, but the details of the matter were left in the hands of the Connecticut chapter which revived a suggestion made in 1870 by Sydney Lanier, the noted Georgia poet, that the property be purchased and presented to the nation.

He also would advise that in the event the culpable nation goes to war in defiance of an umpire's decision, the United States would not insist on its rights of neutral trade, but, instead, would refuse to sell munitions or supplies or food to the nation at fault.

STRATFORD Hall will be 200 years old this spring. The building was started in 1750 by Thomas Lee, son of Queen Charlotte, wife of George II, giving £300 from her privy purse toward the cost. Her gift followed destruction of the original Lee home in an incendiary fire. The site of that house later became the family burying ground where generations of famous Virginians are buried in tombs fast failing into decay.

The manor house is of brick, in the shape of an H. The total frontage is 80 feet and depth 60 feet. It has three floors. Four large brick outbuildings are near by, having been the coach, kitchen, stable and laundry. A crumpling brick wall more than a mile in length surrounds the gardens. The remains of terraces stretching down to the Potomac River bear out accounts of the beautiful landscaping for which the estate was noted.

PLATEAU (Mont.) Jan. 20. (P)—A protestant church in the Plateau section of the city of Plateau, Mont., has been organized.

Rev. W. C. Johnson, pastor, said that the church will be organized in time to participate in the observance of the 100th anniversary of the formation of the First Presbyterian Church of Plateau.

ARMY MEN VISIT FORMER KAISER

BERLIN, Jan. 20. (P)—Protestant, and particularly Lutheran, churches throughout Germany today celebrated the 400th anniversary of the publication of the Luther catechism.

There were special services which are to be followed during the next six days by "propaganda week" on behalf of religious education.

A group of Union of Evangelical Preachers, from among the theologians and political leaders received general publication. In the opinions is pointed out the influence that the life and work of Martin Luther has had on the German language and culture and the education of the masses.

ARMY MEN VISIT FORMER KAISER

DOORN (Holland) Jan. 20. (P)—A party of former German imperial army and navy officers gathered at Doorn House today to present greetings to their former chief, the former Kaiser, who will celebrate his seventieth birthday next Sunday.

They assembled in the castle hall at 10 a.m. for divine service which was attended by the former Kaiser and his consort.

Later birthday greetings were formally tendered by Field Marshal Von Mackensen, to whom William replied with a brief address of thanks.

EIGHT MEXICANS DIE IN CROSSING WRECK

SIERRA BLANCA (Tex.) Jan. 20. (P)—Eight Mexicans were killed and one seriously injured when an eastbound Southern Pacific passenger train hit a small touring car at Pinhook Crossing, twenty miles west of here, today. All nine members of the car were Mexicans, most of them children. The machine bore a Big Springs (Tex.) license.

POLITICS REJECTED BY MUSSOLINI'S BROTHER

ROME, Jan. 20. (P)—Arnaldo Mussolini, brother of the Premier, today declined the offer of a journalistic syndicate to make him their candidate for deputy in the elections of April 15.

In a letter to Deputi Antonino, secretary of the Fascist Journalists' Association, he reminded him of his similar decision in the last elections.

TRAGEDY OCCURS

A tragedy took Stratford Hall out of the hands of the Lees just a century ago. Margaret Lee, the 10-year-old daughter of Henry Lee and his only child, ran out of the house during a storm and was killed by falling down the long flight of stone steps. Her father left the plantation never to return.

It passed into the hands of Dr. Richard Stuart, father of the recent owner. The Stuarts are related to the Lees through Elmer Calvert, wife of John Park Custis, stepson of George Washington.

It is proposed to restore Stratford

EVOLUTION SEEN AS FORM JUMPS

New Theory Propounded by Prominent Biologist

Man Created About as He is Today, Says Dr. Clark

Whole Picture Present From Strat, Scientist Holds

WASHINGTON, Jan 19. (AP)—Dr. Austin H. Clark of the United States National Museum and widely known as a biologist, has propounded a new theory of evolution with revolutionary implications for biology and related sciences. He differs on vital points with the Darwinian theory of descent of man from a lower animal life and explains evolution as a series of jumps from one major form of life to another, rather than to a process of gradual development.

While offering new fields for scientific investigation, Dr. Clark's theory promises to bring up a factor in the controversy between those known as fundamentalists, upholding the biblical version of creation, and the opposing group, known as modernists, who support the evolutionary view or differ with the Genesis story.

CREATION UPHELD
"So far as concerns the major groups of animals, the creationists seem to have the better of the argument," Dr. Clark said in announcing his theory. "There is not the slightest evidence that any of the major groups arose from any other. Each is a special animal complex, related more or less closely to all the rest, and appearing, therefore, as a special and distinct creation."

The concept of Dr. Clark differs with previous evidence of the descent of man from an ape-like ancestor and asserts that man appeared on earth substantially as he is today—to all intents and purposes a product of special creation. His theory is that man appeared in practically the same form he has now, and that he had the capacity of life to produce a variant, or "abnormality" having an enormously enlarged brain in an environment where it was able to survive.

NO LINK MISSING
In the very ancient fragmentary bones which have been dug up by anthropologists, Dr. Clark finds no evidence of "missing link" or intermediate form between man and monkey. There are the bones either of men or monkeys, he says, although some, if they were more complete, might be found to be the remains of "abnormalities" that were produced before man appeared through operation of the same inherent tendency, but were unable to survive the environment into which they were cast.

Within the animal and plant groups, Dr. Clark's theory allows for the working of the Darwinian theory of changes brought about by natural and artificial selection, but remains silent on the possibility of inheritance of acquired characters. The new theory also modifies the mutation theory which accounts for the origin of new species and families. The result is that parental abnormalities born to normal parents into an environment in which the abnormal characters prove to be assets in maintaining life.

ABNORMALITIES DENIED
Dr. Clark holds that there are no abnormalities, but that all life is so amazingly adapted to produce certain forms and that when these forms happen to be born in a favorable environment they survive as new types of animals or plants. The whole picture, he says, was present from the beginning.

The key to the theory lies in Dr. Clark's conception of animal complexes, present throughout creation. The same tendencies to the same variations are present in butterflies and moths such as the tendency toward a big brachy. But he affirms there will never be a super-intelligent butterfly because the physical structure of a butterfly will not permit it.

Dr. Clark takes the time element entirely out of evolution and restores the concept of an original plan in nature which has been and is still being expressed in life. He differs again with other theories in his consideration of vertebrate life, holding that vertebrates probably rose first in marsh lands and that the first were amphibians and not fish.

Mrs. George M. Midgeley, chairman of the team matches sponsored by the women's auxiliary of the Southern California Golf Association, announced last night that final matches scheduled for today would be postponed until Monday, the 28th inst., due to the rain, which yesterday inundated local golf courses. Several important matches which will determine group champions in the Los Angeles and eastern divisions, will be played on that date.

Ray Miller to Meet Grogan in Return Go

DETROIT, Jan. 20. (P)—Ray Miller, one of the outstanding challengers for the lightweight crown of Sammy Mandell and Tommy Grogan of Omaha, who ten days ago met in a bout which Miller won by a knockout in the fourth round, has been matched for another meeting here February 1, it was announced tonight.

The bout is expected to be a sell-out attraction as Miller won the earlier match only after being knocked down five times.

The match scheduled for Friday between Miller and Bruce Flowers was canceled last night when the New Rochelle (N. Y.) negro announced he was ill.

ITALY'S DAVIS CUP CHANCES IMPROVING

MONTE CARLO, Jan. 20. (P)—Baron Henri De Morpurgo served notice on the tennis world today that Italy intends to repeat its Davis Cup success of last year when the Italians reached the interzone finals. Morpurgo, ace of the Italian Davis Cup team, defeated Jacques Brugnon, one of France's top players, in the final of the hard-court tournament, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3. De Morpurgo never flashed better tennis on European courts. He simply smothered Brugnon. Italy's Davis Cup chances are further enhanced by the improvement in the play of De Stefani, another member of the team. De Stefani reached the semifinals of the hard-court tournament despite the fact that some of the greatest of European players were entered.

PHILBROOK TO COACH NEVADA

Whittier Athletic Head Gets New Grid Post

Takes Over Reins at Reno This Spring

Poet Officials Looking for New Mentor

BY BRAVEN DYER

George W. Philbrook, for the past two years football coach and head of the athletic department at Whittier College will leave the Quaker institution this spring to take over new duties as grid mentor of the University of Nevada eleven.

Philbrook will take the place of Lawrence (Buck) Shaw, former Notre Dame player, who has been guiding the destinies of the Sagebrushers.

Shaw has an assistant coach at Nevada before taking over full charge of the gridiron a couple of years ago. Philbrook is also a former Notre Dame athlete, having played at the same time Knute Rockne did his stuff for the Irish.

SUCCEDED CALLAND

The Whittier mentor has been popular in local athletic circles ever since he came here from Idaho to take the position left vacant by the resignation of Lee Calland in the spring of 1927. Calland, who returned to Southern California, his alma mater, had had unusual success as both football and basketball coach at Whittier and Philbrook stepped into a mighty tough spot.

In 1927 injuries to Capt. Oak Pendleton ruined what promised to be a brilliant Whittier season. Oak was out for several weeks with cracked ribs just when the Poets needed him most. This past season the Quakers showed great possibilities but were afflicted with fibrillitis.

The University of Nevada, located at Reno, is a member of the Far Western Conference, playing against Santa Clara, Fresno State and other such teams. Last year California trounced Nevada, 60 to 0. The Trojans play Nevada at the Coliseum on November 9, next.

In the old days the Sagebrushers used to delight in coming to the

Leo Calland's University of Southern California quintet goes into action again tomorrow night, entertaining the fast-traveling Occidentals at the Trojan pavilion. The game is billed for 8 o'clock.

Definitely out of the Coast Conference race as the result of their 33-to-5 defeat at the hands of Stanford Saturday night, the Trojans now have nothing to lose and as a result, with the tension gone, may play better basketball.

Occidental is capable of giving the Trojans quite a battle tomorrow night. The Tigers have won six games in a row this season and are leading the Southern California Conference with three wins and no defeats. Since Coach Keinholz took charge of the squad following his return from Honolulu, Oxy has averaged forty-four points per game, a record that is not to be sneezed at. At the same time Oxy's opponents have tallied twenty-three points per contest.

Ed Beebe and Ted Ellsworth, two stalwart guards, have had much to do with Occidental's success. They play great defensive basketball.

Both were members of the football team which lost to the Trojans, 18 to 0, last fall. Capt. Lloyd Thomas, star quarterback, and the Trojan quintet were also prominent on the gridiron.

Saturday night the Trojans play the first of a three-game series with U.C.L.A. The Bruins made a strong showing against California in the north last week and will be slight favorites to upset Leo Calland's outfit.

The chances are William F. Christner will not recover until after this battle is over, if then.

The Garden is promoting the Stirling-Sharkey affair and a defeat, or an unimpressive showing by Sharkey, would be inconvenient to say the least.

Sharkey will be making his second appearance in the ring after the death of Tex Rickard, spent yesterday in and about the water. For some time this afternoon he watched an exhibition of aquatics.

"I did not even check up on the seat sales and reservations today," he said. "We'll have to wade in tomorrow to make up for the time I took today."

KAYO CHRISTNER HAS CHANCE TO UPSET MIAMI BOUT PLANS BY BEATING SHARKEY FRIDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (P)—K. O. Christner, the big rubber tire man from Akron, O., gets a chance this week to throw a wrench into the machinery set up for the Jack Sharkey-Young Stirling bout at Miami Beach, Feb. 27. He battles Sharkey in a ten-round match in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Christner, the slightly balled slinger, jumped into national prominence with his surprising defeat of Knute Hansen, who was being groomed at that time to succeed to the heavyweight throne vacated by Gene Tunney.

Christner's pile-driving right made the crowd forget all about his heavyweight aspirations at least for awhile.

Now the Akronite gets his first Garden "shot" against the Boston sailor whom many experts believe is most likely to win the heavyweight title.

The chances are William F. Christner will not recover until after this battle is over, if then.

Tex Rickard Tells Story of Famous Fight Between Joe Gans and Nelson at Goldfield TEX SAYS DURABLE DANE USED ALL FOUL TACTICS

Baltimore Negro Made Nelson Look Ridiculous When White Man Tried to Box in Goldfield Bout

This is the only autobiography written by Tex Rickard. It was prepared in collaboration with Bozeman Bulger, for publication exclusively by The Times and The North American Newspaper Alliance. Shortly before Rickard's death he discussed with Bulger plans for publication of these memoirs in book form. Following is the twelfth installment of the autobiography, which is appearing in daily chapters.

BY TEX RICKARD

(In Collaboration with Bozeman Bulger)

(Copyright, 1929, by The North American Newspaper Alliance.)

When George Siler appeared in the ring that September afternoon and called Joe Gans and Bat Nelson to the center for final instructions, I was a much relieved man. The fight now was a certainty. I could sit back and see every blow without another worry about the preliminaries.

I was really interested in the fight—just as much as in the promotion. I wanted to see every blow.

Just as Gans was about to pull on his gloves we passed to McDonald, he is a man in his time, gave it to Joe. It was from Joe's old mother in Baltimore and the wording became historic. One phrase of it is today a by-word in sport it reads:

"Joe, the eyes of the world are on you. Everybody says you ought to win. Young Peter Jackson will tell me the news, and we bring home the bacon."

JOHN L'S "TIRE"

Another telegram that caused a big laugh was from John L. Sullivan: "Sorry I can't be at the fight. It ought to be a coker." My regards to all, especially the Sullivans."

Larry Sullivan was Gans's financial backer, and took an active part in the draw in a corner. He was also master of ceremonies.

In presenting the fighters to the crowd, the announcer warned against disorder, declaring that there were 300 armed deputies in the crowd; if called on they would mean business. He was right, too.

That crowd was a picture-perfect assemblage. There were miners, cowboys, bookmakers, distinguished men from all cities and fully 300 women.

From the start these women appeared to be in sympathy with Gans. In fact he was the favorite of almost everybody before the fight had gone ten rounds.

REAL FIGHT

Gans started it by jabbing Nelson with his left twice in rapid succession. For sheer grit and endurance nothing like that fight—never expect it. It did not give me a thrill like the Dempsey-Firpo fight, for example, but for real fighting the Gans-Nelson affair stands out.

For just a minute Nelson attempted to box with Gans. His efforts were ridiculous. He might as well have attempted to box a shadow. Gans fairly peppered his face with jabs and hooks.

Seeing he had no chance at boxing, Nelson followed instructions, began hoisting in and hauling Gans about the ring, trying to punish him with body blows. He wrestled as much as he boxed.

In addition to that ugly style of fighting Nelson used all kinds of foul tactics. After ten or twelve rounds he was intensely unpopular.

For the third time again Gans boxed Nelson off and then tried to fight him at long distance. Instantly, though, Nelson would fall back into the clinch and the mauling would start over again.

From Nelson's corner Billy Nolan kept yelling to him to keep born in. He didn't want Nelson to attempt boxing. In that respect Nelson was wise, though very unpopular.

Gans was forced to meet Nelson at his own game. Round after round passed without a decisive incident. In the eighteenth, twenty-fourth and thirty-second rounds Nelson hit Gans below the belt. Some said that he had been instructed to do this from his corner. I don't know the truth about that. I do know that Referee Siler frequently warned him.

"Fall! Fall!" frequently came from Gans's corner and also from the crowd.

Then Nelson began butting. Several times he bored in and drove his hard head against Gans's chin. Joe protested but as no harm was done Siler let it pass.

DISGUSTED WITH DAVE

The crowd was getting disgusted with Nelson. On top of his other foul tactics he struck Gans in the stomach when Gans was lifting him to his feet. There was a big hiss at this.

In the thirty-fifth round, I think it was, Nelson slipped and was almost driven through the ropes. Gans caught him and lifted him to his feet. In the thirty-third round Gans landed a hard punch on Nelson's jaw and broke a bone in his hand. His sign of distress was a limp.

No one knew of his broken hand until afterward.

And so the fight dragged on, marred on the two hammering at each other. Nelson's face was beaten to a pulp. The negro was also bleeding from the nose and ears. It was sure a fierce scrap.

In the last round Gans led off with a straight left to Nelson's face. But immediately fell into a clinch. As they broke, Nelson struck Gans a hard uppercut blow in the groin. Gans slowly sank to the floor in great pain.

Without hesitation or waiting for a protest, Referee Siler walked over and disqualified Nelson, declaring Gans the winner.

COTTON GROOMED FOR OPEN

Young Star is Hope of British Golf

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

[F. ON some future date, the news flashes over the wire that a young Briton answering to the name of T. H. (Henry) Cotton of London has gladdened the hearts of all golfers by winning the British open golf championship from Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, et al., you may recall to memory the quiet young English golfer who played through Southern California's 1928-29 midwinter series of golf tournaments.

Not many will remember Cotton. He was never at the top of the heap, and galleries were prone to pass him by for the more brilliant members of the golfing fraternity. Those who did follow Cotton were impressed with the business-like manner in which he went about his golf.

COTTON "WHITE HOPE"

Cotton is today one of the foremost "white hopes" of Great Britain. He was playing under a severe handicap in the local tournaments, under vastly different conditions to those existing in England. Fairways and greens were unfamiliar, and took the edge off his game. The pointers Cotton picked up over here, however, may some day make him England's greatest professional. And he isn't far from being that now. Cotton was runner-up in the British professional golfers' championship and ranks right alongside of Archie Compston and other leading British professionals.

During the most few disastrous years of golf in England, where the British open has become the "American open" with Hagen annexing his third championship in 1928, and Jones slipping in to win in 1927, English "pros" have gradually come to the conclusion that they might learn something by coming to the United States. As a result, both Compston and Cotton packed their grips and crossed the pond. Compston was slated to play in Los Angeles $10,000 open, but picked up a job in a Compton and elected to remain there.

PRIZE FOR BRITON

Hagen and other noted professionals who know the game have told us at various times not to pass up the British open and not to judge the golf he played in Southern California.

The young Englishman has an ideal golfing temperament. He was never flashy, but always consistent as his efforts indicate. In the Catalina open, Cotton finished twenty-second with cards of 67-63-68-68, and matched next weekend. At the 1928-29 midwinter series of golf he played in Southern California.

COACHED MULTNOMAH

Philbrook has been in the coaching game since 1914. He was formerly in charge of football at Multnomah Club and had what many critics consider one of the greatest records of all time in 1928.

Jack Neville finished a close second with 83. McHugh went out in par 36, and was only two over par going to the fifteenth tee. He went out of bounds on the fifteenth and his tee shot found the ocean on the seventeenth and eighteenth. As a result, he finished two strokes over par. Neville stayed close to par except for a six on the first and an eight on the eighth.

NEWMAN CONSIDERED

Chief Newman, now at Covina High School, and Hobbs Adams, at Monrovia, were under consideration two years ago. Newman is one of the most successful high school coaches in the business.

There's A. J. Sturzenegger at U.C.L.A., assistant to Bill Spaulding; but we doubt if Sturz would be the best choice.

The Bruins under the Professors officials made him an unusually lucrative offer. And this they could well afford to do if they want to land a high-class mentor for "Sturz" is all of that.

TURNESA DISCUSSES GOLF

Size and Strength Have Nothing to Do With Long Driving, Noted Pro Declares

BY JOE TURNESA

Former Runner-up for National Open and Professional Championships (Written exclusively for The Times and The North American Newspaper Alliance.) (Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

(Mr. Turnesa is one of the best of the younger golf professionals in the United States. He finished one stroke behind Bobby Jones in the open at Scioto and was fourth to Walter Hagen in the P. G. A. championship in 1927. He has been a member of the international Ryder Cup team for several years.)

My method of driving is to start with the hands and arms together, not breaking the wrists at the start but at the top of the swing. Then come down with a long, full sweep, increasing speed until it reaches its greatest at the point of impact. It isn't necessary to add that the head should be kept down and the body away permitted.

There are so many fine, long hitters today that it is hard to pick anyone as the best. Henry Clay comes as close to perfection as anyone I know. He has splendid control. Johnny Farrell, Leo Diegel and Walter Hagen are also very fine hitters off the tee.

Size and strength have nothing to do with long driving. Clay is rather small and compact. Farrell is tall and thin. Hagen is around middle height, verging a little on bulkiness. When Cyril Walker won the open championship at Oakland last year he weighed 165 pounds, but he kept up with the hardest hitters. It's all in the timing, and not in the sheer physical power applied to the shot.

I think the greatest drive I ever saw was made by Cindy in the fifth hole at the La Gorce Country Club in Miami. This hole is 375 yards long—a drive and a masterpiece chip for even the most thunderous hitters.

Henry bore down and walked a terrific drive that split the fairway and rolled up on the green. Three hundred and seventy-five yards! It doesn't seem reasonable, does it? Yet I saw that drive—it is the longest I've ever seen or ever expect to see under modern conditions.

Mere distance without direction does no good, as many a long hitter has found out. But the one who can drive with the best of them and stay in the fairway has a better chance of scoring well than the short driver has.

As an example, Clay has come forward in the last season or two as one of the most promising golfers in the United States, and a lot of his success is due to the way he can drive.

Forward in the last season or two as one of the most promising golfers in the United States, and a lot of his success is due to the way he can drive.

Not particularly his grip. All the driving tips of his right hand on the leather and the right thumb nail pressing into it. The left does the overlapping with the left thumb down the leather. This helps him keep the club face on the line of putt going back and coming through. Johnny tries and succeeds in doing just that.

He has a longer, free backswing than most putters. As his left hand is cocked on the shaft he maintains it can thus better control this swing. Farrell sweeps a putt through. He thinks that a short backswing leads to a jerky, jump effort, always resulting in a missed putt. "Putters are made and not born," is Johnny's theory and countless hours of practice enabled him to perfect this part of his game to the highest degree.

Stance, grip, weight of the ball and follow-through are important factors in putting. Stand upright on the ball and hold the putter firmly with both hands. Turn the shoulders slightly on left to prevent swaying. Tomorrow—Tommy Armour's putting method.

OIL and MINING

VENTURA FIELD WILDCAT STIRS

Shell Company to Drill Far Off Proven Ground

Action Viewed as Surprise for Oil Operators

Project Will be Drilled on Taylor-Lloyd Lease

Having developed a great deal of production far down on the south dip where geologists used to say there was no oil to be found, the Ventura-avenue field is springing a surprise by launching a wildcat up in the northwest corner.

The Shell Oil Company is going to take what is classified as a wildcat shot at the Taylor-Lloyd lease, the well to be known as Taylor-Lloyd No. 1. This lease is a part of Shell's old Taylor lease, on the west side of the Ventura River, but the north end of it has never been drilled.

The Taylor-Lloyd No. 1 will be situated 1200 feet north of the north line of the main Taylor lease, and about 800 feet west of the Bolia Chica Oil Corporation's Hartmann No. 3 well. Road is being built now to the site for the new well.

Considering the fact that the Igles Chico No. 3, when taken to the deep zone, had to go down a matter of 7200 feet, it is generally expected that Shell may have to go 7000 feet or deeper to pick up sufficient production in its northwest outpost, if it finds oil there at all.

Shell has the rigs up for its Taylor No. 34 and Taylor No. 37 wells on the old Taylor lease, and is building rig for Taylor No. 38. Its Taylor No. 20 is expected to go into production within the next few days.

Gas Line From Artesia Field Nears Finish

ARTESIA (N. M.) Jan. 20. (Exclusive)—The Pecos Valley Gas Company has practically completed its natural gas pipe line from the Artesia field to Roswell, a distance of forty-five miles. The company is under contract to supply the Southwestern Public Service Company with gas for the latter's distribution system in Roswell where it has obtained a twenty-five-year franchise.

The cost of the pipe line was approximately $250,000. The company will supply natural gas to Elizabethtown, Lake Arthur, Artesia, Carlsbad, Clovis and Portales. It owns several natural gas wells in the Artesia field and drill others. It is stated by Manager Sidney S. Woods of Roswell.

SEEK LAWNDALE EXTENSION

Several Companies Starting Wells in Different Directions From Recent Field Discovery

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Although developments in the new Lawndale oil field are swift-moving and of wide interest, quite the most interesting thing in that vicinity is the three-cornered hunt for a new field, which is to be conducted by the Shell Oil Company, the Petroleum Securities Company and the Richfield Oil Company.

All three companies are starting wildcat wells a mile or more from the Peck No. 1 well, which discovered the Lawndale field, and yet all three tests are in different directions from the start.

The Petroleum Securities Company has leased about 200 acres, including a portion of the leases owned by Dahmen & Lloyd, and is now hastening lumber for a derrick which will go up on Lot 5 in the McDonald tract, just west of the Belvedere tract, a mile and a quarter northeast of the Lawndale discovery. Dahmen & Lloyd think so well of this project that they are holding all of their acreage in that vicinity. The drilling project will be under the banner of the Dohneys.

Shell evidently thinks the extension, if any, exists at a point southwest of the Lawndale discovery, for it is preparing to drill a wildcat on a lease about one-half mile west of the one mile west of Ingleswood Boulevard, and a master of at least a mile southwest of the discovery.

Richfield, on the other hand, is preparing to drill its Woods No. 1, a wildcat project, on Wiesburn street, near Balboa Road, one and three-eighths miles northwest of the discovery. The Western Drilling and Producing Company is adding interest to this triangle by making it a point of endeavor with a wildcat of its own over Manhattan Beach, which is pretty nearly a dead west shot.

All four projects will get under way without unnecessary delay, and are expected, within the next four months, to bore a total of 1000 feet to 1200 feet, at a cost which will doubtless run close to $600,000. If either company finds an extension of the Lawndale field the effort will have been worth the cost.

Oil Shut-down at Huntington Beach Looms

Two Producers Add to Output in Oildale Area

Oil wells in Huntington Beach have been posted with notices stating that the wells will be closed down and any oil workers employed on the wells will be arrested, as well as the operators, if city becomes necessary to pay. Liens were due last July.

Most of the companies affected are small corporations and individual operators and practically all of them are in arrears for two to three years on license fees, according to C. R. Furr, City Clerk. The city has approximately $6000 to collect, he said. Approximately eighty-eight rigs will be affected by the closing down order. Of this number twenty-one wells are now on production, six are drilling deeper, several are cleaning out and the remainder are idle, according to Mr. Furr.

Operations in Fruitvale Oil Field Gaining

FRUITVALE, Jan. 20. (Exclusive)—In the Fruitvale field new derricks are appearing on the horizon almost daily. The latest well completed is the Pacific Eastern Production Company's Martin No. 1 on Sec. 29-27, which did 700 barrels a day. This concern is now swabbing mud and oil from its No. B-7 well on the same section, after plugging at 2627 feet. The Lahore No. 1 on Sec. 21, 29-27, is standing cemented with pipe set at 3788 feet.

George F. Getty, Andres Lucas, Shell Oil Company and the Shell Oil Company are all on the active drilling list in the Fruitvale field with wells at various stages of completion.

XLVIII. BUSINESS GAINS MOVE AMAZING

— Survey Shows Trend
of Eight Years Also Have Laid Solid Foundation

— Expansion Declared to be Inevitable Now

In California during the last eight years has experienced the most remarkable growth of any period of the State's history, the California Development Association declares in an economic report made public yesterday.

Commenting on this growth as it appears in some instances reflecting the expansion of industry and commerce is a solid, economic foundation, the association statement declares.

The enormous growth in the eight years, in every section of the State and particularly in Southern California, forms the basis of sound and equally great expansion of industry and commerce in the future, according to the report.

W. K. Robinson, president of Los Angeles First National Bank and vice-chairman of the association's state-wide research committee, said:

— EXPANSION CONDUCTED

By the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, is a ten-day campaign in California for 1000 new members to strengthen its forces in this State-wide problem and bring greater State-wide unity.

Economic conditions in California during the last eight years, in the State has experienced constant development of its business, which has been fundamentally sound, the report declares. General activity based on bank clearings is approximately 12 per cent at 1927 and is 150 per cent at 1928, while the volume of business has increased 100 per cent.

Woman Robbed of $12,200 in Jewels on Porch of June-Street Home

TWO MEN HIDE IN SHRUBBERY

Rain-coat Bandits Also Hold Up Escort

"Not Joking" They Tell Victim; Flee in Auto

Watch, Rings and Bracelets Form Plunder

Up in front of her home at 113 South June street late Saturday night, Mrs. T. H. Peppers reported she was forced to give up jewelry valued at $12,200 to two armed bandits.

With Mrs. Peppers at the time, according to the police report, was R. R. Beamish of 217 South Lorraine avenue, who was robbed of $40 in cash.

Mrs. Peppers informed Captain of Detectives Cato, head of the Wilshire detective bureau who started an investigation yesterday, that Mrs. Beamish and herself had just prepared to unlock the front door of her home when the two bandits stepped up out of the shadows of near-by shrubbery. Both were dressed in rain coats and slouch hats and appeared nervous, she said, they displayed revolvers.

"Don't you folks make any noise, now," one of the pair finally commanded. "We'll have to shoot you. And don't take that as a joke, because we mean it."

Mrs. Peppers said her jewelry was stripped from her wrists and fingers. Pocketing the valuables the two bandits jumped hurriedly from the porch, leaped into an auto parked about distance down the street and fled.

The jewelry, according to Mrs. Peppers, included a platinum wrist watch set with diamonds, valued at $1750, a platinum ring set with several large and numerous small diamonds, valued at $6000, a second diamond ring set with 210 diamonds, a brooch set with 178 diamonds and twenty-four emeralds valued at $4000, and a wedding ring valued at $400.

PLANE AND AUTO CRASH ON ROAD

School, he took out his plane for a flight to Victorville during the afternoon. When he arrived at Victorville the snowstorm was so heavy he decided to return to San Bernardino.

The storm increased and he feared getting any nearer the city for a landing. He located what appeared an open space on the highway and stopped down.

At the police station where all were taken to be thawed out and examined for bruises, a humorous touch was added to the accident by questions put to Tice and Crooks. The desk sergeant wanted to know if each was on the right side of the road when the accident happened. Both Tice and Crooks averred that the other was on the proper side of the road, but that did not bind their witness.

"When the snowstorm came up I knew it was getting dangerous to drive, but I never dreamed I would collide with an airship," Tice told the police.

BRAZILIAN STUDIES FILM ART Says Pictures Make Good-Will Envoy

Visitors From South
Senora Octavio Reis and son, Louis Honold Reis of Rio de Janeiro.

BRAZIL is being welded to the United States in spirit through films made in Hollywood, according to Louis Honold Reis and his mother, Senora Octavio Reis, of Rio de Janeiro, who are guests at the Biltmore. Reis is here to study the motion-picture industry from the ground up with a view of joining his grandfather, Eugene Reis, in the management of theaters and distribution of films through his home country.

Besides operating a chain of theaters and a film distributing company, his grandfather, according to Reis, is a prominent banker and coal mine operator.

CONGRESS SET TO OPEN TODAY

Religious Education Meeting to be Held at Cathedral

Hundreds of State's Church Leaders Will Attend

Speakers From Many Parts of Country on Program

California's standards of character for its citizens are destined for a higher plane, it was indicated yesterday as final arrangements were completed for the assembly here today of hundreds of the State's religious leaders and scores of prominent educators from various parts of the country for the fourth annual Congress of Religious Education.

The congress will be held today and tomorrow at St. Paul's Cathedral and will have as its chief topic "Character Education a Community Responsibility."

MANY FAITHS

The religious organization comprises members representing the Jewish, Catholic and Protestant faiths and supplements the education gained in the arts and sciences by instruction in the principles of character. Although a comparatively young organization, its work is said to have become extremely important and is being advanced by religious leaders all over the country.

A feature of the two-day session here will be a luncheon sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, when Dr. Theodore Sorensen of the University of Chicago will speak.

Among the speakers from other cities will be Prof. Charles E. Rush of the University of California and Dr. George A. Coe of Columbia University. Other speakers will be Dr. Ernest Trappett, L. Irving Lipschitz, director of the Jewish Welfare Association; Dr. Frederick P. Woellner of the University of California at Los Angeles; Judge Miriam Van Waters of Juvenile Court and W. C. Pearce of the Southern California Council of Religious Education.

Or William B. Stevens, bishop of the Los Angeles Episcopal diocese, will preside at the opening session at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Dr. Trappett will be in charge at the evening session. The public has been invited to attend.

CAUSE GAINING

That the cause of co-operative religious education is gaining ground in Southern California is evidenced by a report just made public by the council that during the past year sixty-six leadership training schools of the general type have been conducted in Los Angeles and vicinity.

Besides operating a chain of theaters and a film distributing company, his grandfather, according to Reis, is a prominent banker and coal mine operator.

Mr. and Mrs. Kultot and a neighbor, H. C. Anderson of 1834 Euclid Avenue, Santa Monica, all were dazed and did not know what had happened. They said that they were sitting in the front room listening to the radio when they were blinded by a terrific flare from the radio and stunned by the following concussion which they compared to the firing of a cannon.

A bronze figure on a wooden crucifix was torn off its base and blown to the floor. A second crucifix, on a table in an adjoining room was also blown to the floor and was blackened as if it had been on fire.

Twenty-Two - Passenger Planes to be Used

Designation is to be made today of an airport for the Los Angeles terminal of the Transcontinental Air Transport Company, which plans to inaugurate a forty-eight-hour passenger service between here and New York. Paul Henderson, general manager, and Maj. T. G. Lamphier, another official, have been in Los Angeles for three days inspecting airports. The announcement of their choice will be made this afternoon.

The company is a $5,000,000 concern, of which Col. Lindbergh is an official. A working schedule with the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads has been completed whereby passengers will transfer from airplanes to trains on the trip between the two coasts. The service is expected to start on June 1, practice flights will begin on May 15.

TWENTY PLANES

The company plans to have twenty planes with a capacity of twelve passengers each. A daily schedule will be maintained according to fares for the trips to New York and points between will depend on a schedule to be worked out during the practice flights.

A wireless telephone system will be installed and the company will maintain its own Weather Bureau.

For the last six months she has played the leading feminine role in Jim Tully's "Jarnigan" on Broadway.

ANOTHER BOLT

Mr. and Mrs. John Briggs who reside at 1830 Twelfth street, a short distance around the corner from the Kultos house, reported to firemen that their house had been struck by lightning. The bolt in this case also traveled down the radio aerial, but no damage resulted.

Ed Marshall, assistant Fire Chief of Santa Monica.

Kultot said that the bolt of lightning striking his house is the most recent of a series of hard-luck happenings. Ever since he came to Santa Monica from Minnesota several months ago he said he has been the victim of accidents. Recently he broke his leg and still is on crutches. Prior to that he said he had built his Santa Monica house on the wrong lot and had just moved it over to its present site.

FEAR OF STORMS

It was fear of electrical storms which caused the Kultos to move here from Minnesota, they said. They claimed astonishment to find that they were free from every over lightning and then have a bolt strike their home in this country where lightning is rare.

More than 100 persons were reported marooned at Camp Baldy, San Antonio Canyon, last night. They will not be able to get out until today as a heavy snow was falling at the camp last night with ten inches already on the ground.

BAY REGION HAS CONTRASTING WEATHER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20. (Examiner)—Contrary to reports, the Bay district has enjoyed summer and winter sports at the expense of a few gallons of gasoline. While sun was shining in San Francisco, snow still was falling in the high Sierras late today. At the Summit more than two inches of snow fell yesterday. On the coast, however, the weather was clear and sunny.

Mrs. Frances Alisi, 50, suffered burns over her body when her clothes caught fire from a cigarette she was smoking in her home at 321 San Bonita street yesterday afternoon. She was given emergency treatment at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital and then sent to the General Hospital.

The hands of Mrs. Jennie Lopez, 21, a friend, were burned when she attempted to smother Mrs. Alisi's flaming clothing.

Candy Store on Broadway Held Up by Desperado

One of the boldest robberies of the season was reported to police late Saturday, when Mrs. Rose Joyce, told of being held up and robbed by a lone bandit in See's Candy Shop at 620 South Broadway, but a short distance from what has been reported to be the world's busiest street intersection, Seventh and Broadway.

Mrs. Joyce stated that the bandit was the same man who purchased a box of chocolates earlier in the evening. On his second visit he showed her the outlines of a revolver held concealed in his overcoat pocket. When he threatened to shoot her she gave him $15, she said. He then ran out of the store and boarded a passing street car in heavy drapery, and ran away.

Mrs. Joyce dispersed the bandit as being well dressed but with the sallow complexion of a dope user.

Psalm ciii:8.

PLENTY MUCH LOTS
The philosopher says that a man may give a lot and still save a lot. Any subdivider knows that.

G ETTING EXPERIENCE Experience is something that is always lying in wait at the next corner.
It may be for good or ill. That is something the contact must determine.

T HE KNOCKERS
At least two Senators have their lips made up to offer resolutions calling for further fact-finding commissions.
But what they really wish and expect is the naming of a fault-finding committee.
Nothing sets well with them.

N O SUCH ANIMAL
An educational magazine conducts a symposium—"To Spank or Not to Spank." As near as we can figure it it doesn't make much difference which way the decision goes. The girl won't be home in time for the spanking anyhow.

V OICE CULTURE
Senator Jim Reed has been very indignant at the efforts made to shut off Senatorial debate. He still has six weeks of service ahead of him and he proposes to exercise his voice considerably in that time. No pent-up Utica contracts his powers.

M AN OF THE HOUR
Without even stopping to throw off his coat President Emilio Portes Gil, the new executive of Mexico, sprang into the water of a lake to save the life of a woman who was threatened with drowning.
The big chief is a ready sort of a chap at anything that comes along.

NAKED INSPIRATION
Folks are fussing over a marble statue of a nude woman which appears in the art collection at the State Library at Sacramento. The sculptor calls his figure "Inspiration"—although it seems funny that artists should ever be looking to a raw Venus for inspiration. However, the library appears to be a good place to park the marble bust.
Few people will see her.

FL YING SAFE
Flying is soundly safe if it is thoroughly sans. Note the splendid records of the pilots of the all mail. Here, for instance, is Pilot Fred Kelly of the Western Air Express. Last year he covered 116,000 miles of flying without losing a trick. He has been flying for years—ever since the war, in fact, but it is said that in his regular work he has never even had a forced landing. It is records like this that give stability and character to aviation as an industry.

H ARDEST OF METALS
Practical scientists make further mention of carbonyl, which is declared to be the hardest of all metallic substances. It was developed in the General Electric laboratories and is an alloy of tungsten, carbide and cobalt. If used as a cutting tool it will not need sharp-ening after 10,000 usings. It will cut porcelain on a lathe, bore a smooth hole in a block of concrete or cut a thread on a glass rod. Put it on an emery wheel and it will wear out the wheel in Disgusted with the efforts to bring his subjects around to golf trousers and safety razors King Amanullah of Afghanistan has turned his throne over to his brother and left for Paris—or wherever it is that crownless potentates park themselves. The Afghans are old-fashioned and proud of it. Not even at the behest of their ruler will they budge their beams or baffle themselves into balled shirts. Making over their country into Paris or Hollywood models is a task beyond the capacity of one man—even if he be a hereditary ruler. It is no fun for an up-to-date sport to be king over a people so set in their ways and perhaps Amanullah is glad to get away from the bunch. As the vaudevillian would say he Amanullah king out of a job.

A USTRALIA'S PLIGHT
The opinion of John Edwin Hogg that Australia is suffering from union domination continued to its logical result, business stagnation, expressed in a series of articles just published in The Times, receives corroboration from many sources. A chance number of the Bulletin of Sydney, for instance, discusses else on its editorial page than the deplorable effects of labor union politicians upon the government and the country.

The Bulletin, speaking of the administration, mentions as futile but praiseworthy
"attempts, tardy as they were, to restore democratic control of unions infested with Communists and frustrate the periodical hold-ups of shipping by lawless mobs." Another editorial starts with this assertion: "Parliaments have done more during the past seven years to create than to prevent industrial strike," and later on remarks: "The Prime Minister was talking at Ballan (Victoria) of the waterside riots in Melbourne. The government," he said, "deplored the spectacle of law-abiding citizens being bombed and stoned. The Hogan government had been recreant to its trust in allowing such crimes to be committed." Further on are found these significant sentences: "So far upwards of a week in Melbourne—to mention only one great Australian city—a thousand or more rioters interfered with interstate trade and commerce and foreign trade and threatened to create international incidents and the commonwealth could do nothing but whimper about it and utter meaningless threats.
The position plays right into the hands of the Reds, who are concentrating on the dislocation of sea-borne trade everywhere, and helps to explain the phenomenon, so bewildering to foreigners of Australia being a 'home of strikers.'

The Bulletin in another place scores a racial labor leader for exclaiming in Parliament: "We all believe in the nationalization of credit" declaring "That means control of bank funds—all bank funds—by politicians, who never forget their friends and constituents. This is too much like Bolshevism to be pleasant."

It is apparent that Mr. Hogg has not overdrawn the picture when he declares that Australia, with its great resources and favorable climate, is reduced to the basic industries of wheat and wool, and that even in these production is shrinking, because "strikes in various major industries have averaged 250 to 300 per year for the past thirty years."

It is perhaps not for this country to suggest a remedy to Australia, though a proven one is to be found in the open-shop policy which brought industrial growth to Los Angeles and helped to make it the city of most prodigious growth in recorded history. The lesson of Australia's plight is that a similar calamity must not overtake this country, and that the way to prevent it is to keep eternally vigilant and resist every illegitimate encroachment of the rack-steering unionists.

If there was anything in the theory that unionism is beneficial to working men, Australia ought to furnish the proof since that is and has been for years, the most thoroughly unionized place on earth. Yet, as these articles have shown, the result has been not prosperity but misery for the union workers, and industry has been threatened with no gain to anyone save the labor politicians.

Proof that in this country high wages,
short hours and good working conditions have been brought about in spite of and not because of the trades-union movement is furnished by many circumstances; first, that the condition is widespread, while not one worker in ten in the nation has any union affiliation;
second, that the most conspicuous prosperity is found in the open-shop industries such as automobile building, and the greatest poverty in the unionized textile trades.

F ORT IN JACKING, HERE AND AUSTRALIA, that the trades-union movement has ever benefited anyone but labor leaders, organizers and racketeers.

L YING OVER ANTARCTICA
Members of Commander Byrd's exploration party have made three flights over an Antarctic area and probably have made others since the news of the first ones was dispatched. Byrd may soon add to his north polar achievement that of a flight over the South Pole. When he has done this he will enjoy a remarkable and singular distinction among aviators. He will have taken the wings of science and flown to the uttermost parts of the earth.

Byrd, well installed in his main base, Little America, reported by radio recently that the ice was going out of the Bay of Whales. It would have taken months for Amundsen to have sent home such a report. He succeeded the Pole on December 14, 1921, but it was not until March 7, 1912, that the news reached Tasmania. But Byrd says that "though we are 2000 miles from New Zealand, our radio communication is almost like telephone conversation."

C AREERS OF MANY STATEMEN AND JUDGES have shown that genuine devotion to the principle that public office is a public trust is not incompatible with acceptance of the compensation provided by law. Gov. Fuller went a step further in holding that the honor of serving the community is pay enough. But the general application of such a principle would limit office holding to wealthy men. Ability in statecraft and administration is not necessarily coupled with the acquisitive instinct, and the no-salary rule might often operate to deprive governments of the services of wise men.

Office should seek men to whom the salary is not the prime consideration;
but there is high authority for the saying that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

The disclosure of Gov. Fuller's high sense of the proprieties is a complete answer to some of the criticism that was levelled at him in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, and proof that he acted there in the most conscientious manner. There will, it appears, always be differences of opinion as to the guilt of these two men, but there can be none as to whether Gov. Fuller was moved by anything but his best judgment.

S OME STRANGE LOGIC
Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, if she was correctly quoted, recently declared the Monroe Doctrine outdated and pledged for its formal abandonment. The grounds on which she advocated such action were, first, that South America regards the doctrine as "a policy of military offense," and second,
that "the policies which the world links with the Monroe Doctrine are those in defense of commerce, big business, economic exploitation and financial overlordship."

The Byrd party has been very busy since landing on the bay shore. It is well up to its schedule, and has collected some valuable scientific data. On the day of the hoisting of Old Glory Byrd reported that the Fairchild plane was being uncaged. This was the plane which then has flown over the ice fields. With favorable weather, the party should soon be able to make some famous flights, perhaps to the Pole.

L ITERARY CRIT.

L. S.: Just been reading Carl Sand-berg's "Life of Lincoln." He describes the country in which Lincoln's boy-hood was spent as one in which Indians had battled for a thousand years for the guardianship of the bureaus over the person of the Indian, hence he is still a ward; his children are born wards; there is even no habeas corpus or other legal writ which the Indian can use as protection from the injuries of the bureau against either his person or property.

T HE BENEVOLENT FRIENDS

Of the Indian had a meeting last December at Atlantic City under the auspices of the Indian Rights Association.
One leading "Benevolent" accused the bureau of "murdering" its wards, so grossly are they neglected. All agreed that the Indian is in a most deplorable condition, but not yet ready to be admitted to our civilization and all agreed that Congress was mostly to blame because Congress did not appropriate enough funds.

This meeting finally resolved that Congress should at once appropriate $25,000,000 for our Bureau of Indian Affairs.

This figure was exactly agreed with the testimony of H. E. B. Meritt, Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs, before the Appropriation Committee of the House in November, 1928.

Mr. Meritt said: "We need approximately $25,000,000 a year for several years to come if we are to meet the actual requirements of the situation."

There are approximately 250,000 bureau Indians whose care under bureau control, according to both "Benevolents" and bureau officials, cannot begin to be effective until the bureau has $25,000,000 to expend—though in 1928 the bureau only had $800,000—and as yet there is no other relief suggested for the Indians except a separate trust for each reservation and tribal fund.

These trusts should be created on some fundamental legal basis as other innumerable trusts which now hold property all over the United States.

At no time, of course, during the above program is the Indian to be inequitably disturbed in the rights, occupancy and use of any Indian property now by him possessed.

XXXXII

Dear Al: This is to let you know we got your message all right—at least $2 worth of it.

Anyhow, I am sending you a matched team of bucks in exchange for one of your pretty books—books for books, see? I know you were going to send me one, anyhow, but I am willing to hold a few chips in the pot.

This figure was exactly agreed with the testimony of H. E. B. Meritt, Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs, before the Appropriation Committee of the House in November, 1928.

Now you are telling me practically the same thing. So there must be something to it. Just between ourselves I am mighty glad of it, for the country surely needs the Democratic party.

Otherwise it would hardly off it really is.

This is done in the face of the fact that (1) the American Indian is now a citizen; (2) that no other race in the country needs such "special attention";

(3) that facilities in every State
now exist for the education, health and policing of its citizens;

(4) that the greatest education any race can gain in this country is the free and unrestricted association with his fellow-citizens; (5) that bureau control of the Indian is exercise of authority over the person of a human being more drastic than is to be found in the confines of any other civilized country; (6) that particularly since 1887, repeated investigations of bureau control have been most severely condemned by its guardian—the latest by the 1928 report of the Institute of Government Research.

Can it be possible that the American Indian is held in captivity by a bureau because the bureau is more interested in the American Indian than in human beings? By all standards of this present civilization the American<br

WICHES IN HEAVEN RANKED WEALTH UNQUESTIONED

Journal Treasures Offer Dividends Here on Earth as Well as in Eternity, Says Bishop

Believing that the Father of the human race has made it possible for His children to become rich in those essential things which will bring present and eternal happiness, Dr. William M. Bell, pastor of United Brethren Churches of the United States, in a sermon at First United Brethren Church yesterday told his hearers that the most appealing poverty on earth is the willful failure to make investments that insure blessed returns beyond the "happiness of heaven," declared Rev. W. C. Scott in his sermon yesterday at Union Church. Discussing the Lord's Supper, Mr. Scott said in part:

"To me holy communion is a symbol not of death but of life. The daily bread for which we are taught to pray includes the spiritual food as well as the physical. The "bread which came down from heaven" is the life of the soul. Even in the wine, symbolic of the shed blood of our Lord, we have the idea of life. Why not let the world take this interpretation of Christ? Why hang about the church? Why does not the church in the community stand for all that is joyous, rejuvenating and happy?"

HUMILITY DECLARED

SIGN OF GREATNESS

"Only strong souls can be gentle and truly forgive," said Dr. H. C. Culbertson in his sermon yesterday at Plymouth Congregational Church.

"Humility is the sign of greatness and influence," said Dr. Culbertson. "As to the degree and the manner in which humility becomes the real investment in anyone and society social advance, we must wait and see."

"A perfect man would urge people to do what they will later on in their lives, and even if they account there were no way until the first step taken?"

REstricted THOUGHT

CALLED DANGEROUS

"Fear of new ideas is the arch-enemy of America's social and religious development," said Dr. Holden Shepard in a sermon on "Your Creative Mind," preached yesterday at First Universalist Church.

"The healings were not accomplished through hypnosis for the diseased persons were not put to sleep," said the speaker. "Nor was the principle of the healings the heightening of the patients' emotional expectation in a tense, eager crowd, for some healing was done quietly, alone, or before a few. Nor was faith on the part of the afflicted not always there. It was often so. Jesus' healing was done through command and not unenlightened prayer. All effective command implies knowledge and power. He had the knowledge that the patients had faith or that their wrong karma condition was up, and also the knowledge that he had faith in himself and that it was the condition that he should heal them. And he had the divine power to chase away mental and psychical inharmonious conditions which caused their disease by injecting His own inner harmony. These factors operate in all healing—consciously or unconsciously, clearly or vaguely."

RESTRICTED THOUGHT

CALLED DANGEROUS

"Fear of new ideas is the arch-enemy of America's social and religious development," said Dr. Holden Shepard in a sermon on "Your Creative Mind," preached yesterday at First Universalist Church.

"Constructive, creative forces and forces of the mind are hindered by restrictions and bonds put upon the mental life," said Dr. Shepard.

"We are developing an antagonism to growth that is barbaric in its kind, and to narrow talk. No man is well out of the field of self-agency until he has freed his mind of the heathenish power of tabu."

"States are passing laws restricting the teaching of scientific hypotheses—avenger reborn in modern life. Great organizations resist the advance of new political, social and economic ideas in the name of the fathers."

"God spares us from the necessity of counting up the cost when the books of eternity reveal the terrible fruitage of religion in binding men's minds with suspicion, reaction and tabu."

pear in magazines which set forth the fact that many essential features of Christianity are paralleled in paganism. The Christian answer to this theory is that the human race started in the Garden of Eden from which they emerged in possession of certain facts that God had revealed to them.

"One of these facts was that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head. When the sons of Adam emigrated to the four corners of the earth they carried their traditions with them. Jesus Christ taught that all of the essential truths related to His birth, life, resurrection and ascension are embodied in the Old Testament literature, and in the first three chapters of Genesis."

The scriptural selections which were read included verses from Matthew xix: "And, behold, one came and said unto Him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?" And He said unto him, "Why call thee Me good? There is none good but One, that is God; but if thou enter into

MONEY SLIPS AWAY

It was said that even though the pioneer director possibly has made more money than any other man in business, he is comparatively a poor man in comparison with Joseph M. Schenck, C. C. B. Miller, Jesse Lasky, Adolph Zukor, Carl Laemmle and others. This is probably due to the fact that he has used considerable of his income in experiments.

In his twenty years Griffith has aided in the development of motion pictures from the peep-show phase to their present status. He is credited with being instrumental in discovering the long shot, flashback, close-up, soft-focus effects, camera angles and other developments.

The first talking picture, "Dream Girl," was made by Griffith in 1929, and the "Kolossal" of synchronization but he was unable at that time to get capital interested in sound for the screen.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY
One should ask the European economist for the outstanding feature of the year 1928, the chances are nine out of ten that he would respond, "The prosperity of the United States."

This was evident in the year-and-a-halfs published by the principal European newspapers, all of which featured the financial situation of America, and it has set both editorial writers and the general public speculating on just how long such prosperity can continue and what is the fundamental basis of it.

Naturally, the journalists put these questions to prominent visiting Americans and abroad, the latter and the rest will confess they are not all of the same opinion as to the causes responsible for America's present dominant financial situation.

"Prosperity is largely a state of mind," says William D. Sargent, steel manufacturer of New York. "Of course I don't mean that prosperity has not a certain definite economic foundation; I am merely trying to emphasize the psychological factor in this condition."

Mr. Sargent then goes on to explain that "American prosperity is based primarily on mass production" and that the "psychological element enters" when workmen are paid higher wages to increase their spending power and when the number of their working hours are reduced to give them more time to spend their money.

"American prosperity has come to stay," says Gen. William W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, "and in staying it will disprove laws of economics hitherto believed infallible" because it is based on an "entirely new historical and economic phenomenon" and not on conquest, exploitation or the exchange of one commodity for another. Gen. Atterbury believes that the "cycle theory" of alternating cycles of prosperity and depression must be abandoned in relation to the United States.

That the recent spectacular rises in the New York Stock Exchange were a result rather of a definite movement of many years than an overnight accident is the opinion of Ira Nelson Morris, diplomat, author and financier, and Frederick C. Gossert, editor of the Hartford "Courant," the oldest newspaper in America appearing under its original name, agrees that "the United States is entering on a new period of widespread prosperity, of which there have been unmistakable signs throughout 1928 in spite of the fact that we have for a long course of years witnessed prosperity of the very highest order."

Two cupsful of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonsful of butter, two-thirds of a cupful of rice, sweet potatoes, about three-quarters of a cupful of milk, sift together the flour, salt, baking powder and salt, work in the shortening the same as for biscuits, add the milk until the dough can be easily handled; place on a well-floured board, lightly knead in the sweet potato, roll to one-half inch in thickness, cut with a biscuit cutter, place on a well-oiled pan and bake in a hot oven.

RAKED ONION STUFFED WITH SAUSAGE

Six or eight medium-sized onions, one-half a pound of sausage meat, one-half of a cupful of dry bread crumbs, one cupful of milk, two tablespoonsfuls of butter, two table-spoonsfuls of flour, paprika.

Peel the onions, scoop out the center, place the sausage meat in the cavities and steam over a low heat. Then remove to a well-oiled baking dish; pour over a white sauce made by cooking the flour, butter and milk together until thickened. Any of the sausages that have been left over may be added. Season with paprika and salt. Cover with the bread crumbs and bake until tender in a hot oven.

CHEESE SALAD DRESSING

Six tablespoonsfuls of cottage cheese, one tablespoonful of salt, three tablespoonsfuls of lemon juice, one-half a teaspoonful of paprika, one-half of an green pepper, two radishes, the rinds of two hard-boiled eggs, one-half a cupful of butter-milk, one clove of garlic. Rub a bowl with a clove of garlic that has been cut, chop a green pepper and the radishes fine. Mash the egg yolks and combine with the pepper and radishes. Mix all the ingredients together, and pour over romaine lettuce.

PRUNE PIE

Bake a pastry shell and while cooling prepare the filling. Scald one cupful of milk and chickpeas with a tablespoonful of cornstarch blended with a little cold milk, slowly add to the milk, the yolk of one well-beaten egg, add to it half a cupful of sugar, a few grains of salt and a cupful of prunes and chopped. Allow to cool together for a few minutes, then cool and place in a pastry lined shell. Serve cold with whipped cream or a meringue.

Lighted House Numbers Finding the correct house in Stockholm, Sweden during the long winter nights has been simplified by a mechanical ruler. City officials have decreed that all house numbers must be illuminated and placed at a certain height above the street so that all who grope may read. In the winter, darkness falls early in Stockholm, sometimes as late as 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The approved type of lighting consists of an electric lamp under the number and on an arm.

Never Scrape Pan

It is unwise to scrape food from any sort of saucepan. It is almost certain to scratch or mar the utensil. Use steel wool and a reliable cleanser—but never a knife.

Absorb the Grease

That last bit of fat can be removed from the top of the soup by allowing a lettuce leaf into the pot.

This will absorb all the grease and may be removed as soon as it has served its purpose.

PICTORIAL REVIEW

A DAINTY NIGHTGOWN

This is just the thing to make for the June bride's trousseau. It is not difficult to make, and yet the result is both dainty and distinctive. Ecru lace used in the skirt bands and yoke is effective with pastel shades of crepe de Chine; but contrasting shades of crepe de Chine are also pretty, such as pink trimmed with pale blue, or green trimmed with lavender. The patch pocket and narrow sash are chintz.

MAD RIDE MADE ON WET ROADS

Officers Chase Speeder on Slippery Pavements

Police Learn Man Wanted for Double Crash

Series of Charges Piles Up Against Suspect

PASADENA, Jan. 20.—George V. Michels of Olive avenue, Altadena, was captured this afternoon after a wild chase of several miles over slippery pavements by Officers Clark and Morris. The arresting officers did not know they were taking into custody a man asserted to have been guilty of participation in a double hit-and-run traffic crash, and the arrest was made solely on a speeding charge. At the time the two machines reached a speed of sixty miles an hour.

Investigation developed that Michels is reported to have raced past the signals at the intersection of South Orange Grove avenue and Lockhaven street. Soon after, he is said to have struck the automobile of Dr. George Ledingham on South Hill avenue, the impact causing Michels' car to spin like a top on the wet pavements, during which he is said to have collided with the machine of George P. Dyer of 321 South First street, Alhambra. Michels is reported to have made no effort to discover the results of the double crash, racing away from the mishap, while all possible speed.

Dr. Ledingham's wife's neck was severely strained and his arm painfully bruised. No one in the Dyer automobile was injured.

The collision damaged Michels' car in such manner as to cause a tender to drag on the wheel and emit a noise somewhat resembling the shriek of a siren whistle. It was this noise which first attracted the attention of the arresting officers.

The policemen were in Clark's private car, but they gave pursuit and finally had to force Michels into the curb before they could place him under arrest. He is facing charges of driving while intoxicated, failing to stop at a street signal and hitting and run activities.

Lure of California Told in Print Causes Professor to Find New Position

INOLEWOOD, Jan. 20.—An inkling of how long the influence of one copy of The Times' Midwinter annual lasts was given here today by William S. Larson, for a number of years an instructor and lecturer in the University of Minnesota, who arrived here a few days ago with his wife and four children and purchased a home at 421 Harvard street.

Larson said that he received copy of the annual number two days ago and that he decided right then and there, after perusing its pages, that Southern California is the only place to live.

A college instructor with a family, however, he said, cannot live on climate alone so he started seeking a position in this part of the country and recently succeeded to take charge of the production department of the Hayden ice cream factory here. Larson is a graduate of the Agricultural School of the University of Minnesota and is considered an authority on dairy products and ice cream making.

When he and his family left their home in St. Paul it was 20 degrees below zero.

SUPERINTENDENT OF HOSPITAL MOVES

UPLAND, Jan. 20.—Mrs. Carolyn Vermilye, for several years superintendent of San Antonio Community Hospital, is preparing to leave today to go to Redlands, where she will become superintendent of the new Redlands Community Hospital.

Recently Mrs. Vermilye resigned as head of the local hospital, closing eight years of hospital service in the old and new community hospitals.

Mrs. Vermilye will take up her Redlands duties February 1.

PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL

HUNTINGTON PARK, Jan. 20.—Rev. Walter A. Fogg, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church at Whittier, has accepted a call as pastor of the First Baptist Church in this city, and will begin his work here the first Sunday in February. He is a native of England and came to the United States in 1919, locating in Minnesota. He came to California last year.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Jan. 20. (Exclusive)—A movement looking toward the purchase of Santa Marguerita Ranch, which embraces 200,000 acres, and converting it into a joint State and county park, is expected to be launched here Wednesday by W. H. Griswold when he is scheduled to lay the project before the public.

To Santa Marguerita ranch, believed to be the largest in California, is rich in romance and tradition, and ideally suited to park purposes, Griswold asserts. It is bounded on the west by San Clemente, on the south by Oceanside and on the north by San Bernard-

Azusian Veterans Plan for 35,000 Spectators at Fourth Annual Wild West Exhibition

AZUSA, Jan. 20.—Varying from daredevil airplane stunts to intricate tricks and roping wild horses and steers, the program planned this year for the fourth annual rodeo to be sponsored by Canyon City Fest, American Legion, will be materially enlarged, according to Roy Arnold, local Legionnaire, who is managing the event. Accommodations will be provided for 35,000 spectators.

The rodeo will be held here on April 6 and 7, and $30,000 will be expended for entertainment, Arnold said. Arrangements are being made to give away a large prize and $5000 has already been raised for this purpose.

Such professionals as Sam J. Garrett, champion trick rider, and little 7-year-old Richard Giesick of Los Angeles, who holds the world's championship in riding for juveniles with his horse, Dick, will be featured here.

Spectators will be thrilled from the clouds with daring stunts by aero acrobats. More than 150 cowboys and girls will participate in the program for which 125 wild horses are being shipped here from Utah.

The rodeo grounds will be enlarged to accommodate at least 3000 more persons, according to Arnold, who states that every available seat was taken at the rodeo last year.

San Diego Disabled Group Making Organized Effort to Obtain Edifice

HUNTINGTON PARK, Jan. 20.—A mass meeting is to be held at the First Methodist Episcopal Church Tuesday night beginning with a 6:30 o'clock dinner, when it is expected there will be at least 500 persons from all sections of the district who are teachers in the Sunday school, and wish to receive instructions in this work. The speaker of the evening will be Dr. W. C. Pearce, secretary of the Southern California Council of Religious Education.

The meeting is for the organization of a school of instruction or Sunday school teachers. The school is to start February 5 and will continue one night each week for a period of six weeks. There will be six departments. Each department will have a specialist at the head to give the proper training along this argument.

MURK MONEY FOUND

Murk seemed to be trying to get away from the police, Gibson said. All three boarded the train from which Murk leaped or was thrown to his death. None of the three went beyond Anaheim, three miles south of Fullerton, a check by Conductor E. Bacon revealed.

The two men, who are being sought in connection with the case, are said to have boarded a train at San Bernardino with tickets to San Diego, the same as Murk. The three transferred to Fullerton and were observed by Frank Gibson, negro porter, and others of the station, to be involved in an apparent argument.

Officers also found that a $5000 accident policy covering a three-day period had been issued in Los Angeles Friday at 3:10 p.m.

A check on the past activities of Murk was made today by county officials with the expectation that they might find some clew, which would reveal a motive for either murder or suicide or cast some light on the two suspects, who are being sought.

An inquest has been tentatively scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at the McAlister & Sutera mortuary in Bakersfield, by Conner C. D. Brown. Jacob Morris, undertaker in Bakersfield, has requested the undertakers to send the body there following the inquest.

ALTADENA CHAMBER RENAMES OFFICERS

ALTADENA, Jan. 20.—The same officers who have guided the local Chamber of Commerce through a successful year will be continued in office during 1928, it was announced today following the annual meeting.

Officers re-elected are Cecil Bryan, president; Dr. Thomas A. Hogan, vice-president; Walter L. Johnson, second vice-president; N. Jay V. Green, secretary, and R. M. Thru- tress, treasurer.

RELIKS GATHERED BY NATIVE SON PARLOR

CHATSWORTH, Jan. 20.—Members of Cahunga Parlor, a Native Sons of the Golden West, are preparing old relics of knives and spurs, recently unearthed on what was once the famous Rancho de la Ocas (the Ranch of the Bears) now part of the Oakwood Cemetery.

Griswold said he has already conferred with the owners of the ranch and has been assured that the tract may be purchased for $6,000,000. Details of his proposal will be withheld, he said, until his conference with Chamber of Commerce officials Wednesday.

STRANGE CLEWS BAFFLE POLICE

Fullerton Mystery May be Murder or Suicide

Cuts in Chest Did Not Go Through Clothing

Two Men Seen With Victim Sought by Officers

FULLERTON, Jan. 20.—With indications pointing to suicide, yet with a baffling angle of possible murder, Orange county authorities and Santa Fe Railroad officials were working today to clear up the mystery surrounding the death of Ferdinand Merz, Pasco (Wash.) man, found dead beside the Santa Fe railroad a mile and a half south of Fullerton shortly before noon yesterday.

Merz died to death as a result of having his throat cut from ear to ear and from stab wounds in his breast, was the belief expressed by investigators.

They were unable to explain, however, how it occurred that the stab wounds in his chest had not penetrated his clothing, no holes in his coat or shirt corresponding to the injuries, which it was believed must have been made with the large pocket knife, found open in his hand when the body was discovered.

Another theory, on which officers are working, is that the killer, F. L. Elizalde of Ocean side and man named Hubbard, a garage owner at San Diego, who reported at Anaheim that he had seen Merz leap from the train.

Charles A. Walker, Santa Fe agent at Anaheim, when notified that a man had leaped or fallen from the train, started up the track soon afterward for an inspection.

Two men who were said by Elizalde and Hubbard to have been walking with Merz and apparently arguing about something in the smoking car, are also said to have left the train and started to walk back up the tracks, but disappeared after a conversation with Walker.

WANTED MAN DESCRIBED

Roy Howard, deputy sheriff, of Orange county, described tonight that they expected to be able to announce the name of the man tomorrow. A telegram was sent to all sheriffs and police stations in Southern California asking that the man be "detained for questioning in connection with the murder of Ferdinand Merz."

He was described, as follows: American, 5 feet, 11 inches; weight 180 pounds; 40 years of age; rough and wrinkled face, dark complexion, heavy voice inclined to be argumentative, wearing dark, three-quarter-length overcoat, blue serge suit, pants, narrow at knee and cuff. He was shown with two dark felt hats. Information should be sent to either the Orange county Sheriff at Santa Ana or Santa Fe Special Agent at San Bernardino.

PURSUIT RELATED

Murk is said to have told a telephone operator in Colton that he feared he was being pursued and wanted to wire money, which he carried to his brother, Jacob Murk in Bronxville, N. Y. When asked by the operator why he did not ask aid from the police, Murk told him that he could not, the operator said.

The two men, who are being sought in connection with the case, are said to have boarded a train at San Bernardino with tickets to San Diego, the same as Murk. The three transferred to Fullerton, about 40 miles from the eastern terminus of Redondo Beach to Harbor Boulevard, about one-half mile.

City Engineer Leonard will begin field work as soon as official notification that his office has been granted permission to take over all of the work in this district, it was stated today. The boulevard project as a whole is one of the major improvements sponsored by the County Planning Commission and extends along the Coast from the San Fernando Valley to Long Beach and points south. Several links have already been completed under various proceedings. The route through this city is via Camino Real, commonly known as the old Redondo Road.

Officers also found that a $5000 accident policy covering a three-day period had been issued in Los Angeles Friday at 3:10 p.m.

A check on the past activities of Murk was made today by county officials with the expectation that they might find some clew, which would reveal a motive for either murder or suicide or cast some light on the two suspects, who are being sought.

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 20.—The romance and old Spanish flavor of early days in California will be suggested by at least one striking feature exhibit structure at the National Orange Show, February 14 to 24, at San Bernardino, it was disclosed here yesterday.

Ventura county's exhibit, at the show, will be a beautiful replica of the famous and historic old Ventura mission, familiar to every motorist who has traveled the Coast route between Los Angeles and San Bernardino shortly before noon yesterday.
